Flood Cellars To Save Houses From Destruction

Willow and Cordts Streets Residents Dig Holes in Floors of Homes to Allow Water Flooding Houses to Run Into Cellars—Petition Board for Relief.

In times of heavy rains and melting snows, residents of Cordts street and Willow street in Ponckhockie have been forced to borrow pickaxes from the neighbors and dig holes in the floors of their homes to allow the water that swept into the houses to run into the cellars and in that way save the houses from being swept from the foundations. For that reason a number of residents of that section of the city not only filed a petition signed by every householder in that vicinity, but also appeared before the board of public works Tuesday evening with Attorney Isidor Sampson, who they had retained to act as spokesman, to ask that the board give much needed relief to those residing on Willow and Cordts streets and also to repair North street, from Delaware avenue to Beach street.

Attorney Sampson said that no repairs had been made to these streets in some time, and the residents were coming to the conclusion that they had been forgotten. Some time ago, he said, several families had a narrow escape from drowning when their homes were flooded with the waters that swept through the streets from the high banks nearby. The condition was such that they were forced to use pickaxes on the floors of their homes to make openings so that the water that flooded the houses could run into the cellars.

One of the delegation at the meeting said that the whole trouble was caused by the Hutton Company in digging a sluice in the bank. Before that had been done, the water had taken care of itself. Now with the sluice open the water swept through the streets and flooded the houses. He said that one of the negro tenants of the Hutton Company had his home flooded to such an extent that to save the house being swept from the foundation, he borrowed a pickaxe and drove holes in the floors so that the water could run into the cellar. From that cellar it seeped through and, running downhill, flooded the house of the next door neighbor.

Mayor Morris Block, who presided at the meeting, said that he was familiar with conditions in that section and that what had been said by Attorney Sampson regarding the condition of the streets there was not exaggerated. He referred the petition to the street superintendent and street committee with power, and asked the committee to see to it that the Hutton Company did its share in abating the flood conditions which assisted in making the streets mentioned almost impassable.

A Gas Pump Ordinance.

The board received several applications for the installation of gas pumps at the curb and after talking the matter over decided to ask Corporation Counsel James Jenkins to draft an ordinance regulating the installation of pumps and to report the ordinance at the next meeting.

Josephine Avenue Sewer.

William Harp has recently completed the erection of six houses on Josephine avenue, near Marius street, and is anxious to have the city build a sewer in the street. He was present at the time with his attorney, Thomas F. Coughlin. The matter was referred to City Engineer Hallinan to report back to the board as to the best plan for running the line of the proposed sewer.

When the Sewer is Stopped.

Several applications from the property owners asking to be reimbursed for plumbing bills brought out the fact that the board has adopted a resolution that when property owners find the sewer is stopped up, they immediately notify the board office at the city hall before having a plumber dig up to ascertain the trouble. If this is not done, the city will not pay for plumbing service, even if the trouble is found to be in the street.

Pumps and Signs.

The Merchants' Credit Association asked permission to install signs on steel posts on Franklin streets, opposite the Keystone gasoline station. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Richard Meyer asked permission to install an electric sign in front of 76 John street. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Harry Neiburn of 73 Broadway asked to have a lighting pole in front of the entrance to his property moved as it interfered with trucks using the entrance. It was referred to the committee on lighting.

Thomas Costello of 240 Foxhall avenue, asked permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of his place. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Carhart Corporation asked permission to install electric signs in front of the Kingston Hardware Store at 744 Broadway and store of L. D. Frail at 240 Broadway. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Kingston Savings Bank asked permission to erect a standard at the curb in front of the bank on which to place the clock, now on the bank. The request was granted.

The Nash-Van Sales Company asked permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of property at Washington and Hurley avenues. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Broadway Garage, 765 Broadway, asked permission to install an electric sign. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Other Matters.

M. Guy Cochrane, station agent of the N. Y., O. & W. Railroad, sent in a communication regarding Fair street extension, and Superintendent Van Keuren stated it had been taken care of.

Residents of South Wall street petitioned for a sewer in that street last year. Since then it has been found if the line of the proposed sewer was changed it would save the property owners money. It was decided that if the property owners signed an amended petition asking for a change in the sewer, it would be built.

A Street Sign Survey.

The city employes will shortly make a survey of the city to ascertain how many street signs are missing. Superintendent Van Keuren placed the number at four hundred. Signs needed will be purchased later.

Dustoline For Streets.

A representative of the Dustoline Company was present and stated that his concern was anxious to do business with the city. They had not sold the board any Dustoline in two years. This is placed on the streets in the spring to lay the dust.

Superintendent Van Keuren stated that it had always given satisfaction when used by him. The price quoted was 14 cents a gallon.

The board decided to purchase a 1,000 gallon car and if it proved satisfactory to purchase more.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

Says Oil Bribe Talk Is "Bunk"

George Gordon Battle Not in France to Defend American Oil Magnates Whose Testimony Is Being Sought by United States Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Despite reports that his stay in Paris would be extended and that he would appear in defense of H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neill, American oil magnates, should they be called into French courts to give what information they may have in connection with the United States naval oil scandal, George Gordon Battle, noted New York lawyer, departed today ostensibly for the United States.

Blackmer was at the station when Battle boarded the 9:30 Olympic boat train this morning. Before sailing, Battle said he had come to Paris merely "to clear up some vague points in Mr. Blackmer's business contracts."

He denied his visit had anything to do with the oil investigation.

Battle's departure from the United States was almost coincidental with that of U. J. Mengert, of counsel for the United States government, said to be the bearer of letters rogatory issued by an American judge in Cheyenne, Wyo., and demanding that Blackmer and O'Neill testify in French courts concerning their alleged part in the case.

Blackmer formerly was head of the Midwest Refining Company in the United States. O'Neill until recently was president of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Battle, in an interview with International News Service, discussed newspaper reports that huge bribes had been passed.

"This talk of a $2,000,000 bribe in the oil case is absolute bunk," he declared vehemently. "So is the story that I came here to defend Mr. Blackmer. Mr. Blackmer needs no defense."

Battle said he was unaware of the reported presence of Mengert in Paris.

"When the French courts receive letters rogatory—if they do—and request Blackmer's testimony," Battle asserted, "he'll give all the information he has, fully and gladly."

Battle said O'Neill is at Cannes, suffering from acute heart trouble.

Blackmer, in whose hotel suite the interview took place, declared he expected to go to Cannes himself within a fortnight.

Automobile Bills Will Be Killed

Republican Leaders Said to Have Agreed on That Fate for Practically All Pending Legislation—Some of the Measures Affected.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Republican leaders of the Legislature have decided to kill virtually every one of the 1925 automobile measures now pending before both houses, it was declared at the capitol today.

The bill sponsored by Assemblyman Goodrich, Westchester Republican, providing for a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline and a reduction in the automobile license fees will not be passed, the leaders indicated.

Assemblyman Lord is the sponsor of a bill providing for a tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline. This, too, will be smothered in committee.

The anti-petting party bill, which would prohibit automobiles from parking on improved highways, except in emergency, will not be passed. A similar measure was defeated at the 1924 session.

Another measure which would prohibit a car from passing another, going in the same direction, on a curve or within 300 feet of the top of a hill, also is slated for the legislative waste basket, the leaders said.

Senate Leader Found Dead in Bed

Medill McCormick, Dies Unexpectedly on Eve of Retirement from Senate—Prominently Mentioned for Ambassadorial Honors—Was Mark Hanna's Son-in-law.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—United States Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinois, one of the Republican leaders of the Senate, died suddenly today at his hotel here from what physicians described as a "gastric hemmorrhage."

He was found dead in bed at 10 a. m. by hotel employes who went to his room and broke down the door after telephone rings went unanswered.

Senator McCormick was up and around shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, but after that he did not answer several 'phone calls which came for him. Unable to secure any answer, W. H. Barse, the hotel manager, went to McCormick's room about 9:45 o'clock and opened the door. He found Senator McCormick undressed and in bed, apparently dead.

Barse immediately called in Dr. Noble Barns who reported that Senator McCormick had died of a gastric hemorrhage. Barse then notified McCormick's secretary and several of his friends and colleagues, including Representative Nicholas Longworth, who immediately came to the hotel.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, one of McCormick's closest friends, was advised that the discovery of the body was brought about by William Hard, a newspaper correspondent, who called at the hotel to keep an appointment with McCormick.

Physicians said McCormick had been dead about an hour when the body was discovered at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. McCormick is en route here from Chicago, having accompanied Mrs. Nicholas Longworth there when the latter's baby was born.

Senator McCormick was 47 years old. He was born in Chicago, May 16, 1877, the son of Robert S. and Katherine Medill McCormick, and was graduated from Yale in 1900.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Ruth McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, and three children.

Elected to the United States senate in November, 1918, McCormick has served continuously since, but was defeated for re-election in the last Illinois primaries.

At the time of his death McCormick was generally believed to be in good health and the news of his death occasioned great surprise throughout political and social circles in the capital.

Despite his defeat at the polls, McCormick had not intended to retire to private life and was under consideration for appointment as United States ambassador to Paris or some other important European post.

As a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, McCormick came into prominence during the famous League of Nations fight. He was enrolled among the "irreconcilables" who opposed ratification of the Versailles treaty under any consideration.

Formally advised of McCormick's death by his colleague, Senator McKinley, the Senate adopted resolutions of regret and adjourned for the day.

Rumors that McCormick might have taken his own life were dispelled when it was announced that the district coroner was prepared to issue a certificate of death from natural causes.

House Passes Postal Pay Bill

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The postal salary increase bill passed the house today by a vote of 370 to 8.

The bill makes a rearrangement of postal rates on various classes of matter carried by the postal service to increase revenues in order to meet the additional charge for increased salaries to employes. It is estimated that the pay increase will aggregate $68,000,000 a year. The additional revenues from increased charges on matter handled by the postal service is estimated at $61,000,000.

SEIZE WINE AND LIQCOR IN GOVERNMENT TRANSPORT.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25.—A dozen officers and several members of the crew of the government transport Beaufort are expected to be court martialled, it was learned today, as the result of seizure of more than 200 gallons of wines and liquors on the vessel when it arrived in Hampton Roads from the West Indies.

A raid on the Beaufort was made by Captain Wilbert Smith, assistant commandant of the naval base, with the aid of a company of marines.

Frantic efforts were made by the officers and enlisted men on the ship to throw the liquor overboard, according to the raiders.

In the Surrogate's Court.

In surrogate's court letters of administration have been granted Julia E. Smith in the estate of Frederick William Smith of Kingston, who died intestate. Value of estate, $500 personal. Frank W. Brooks, attorney for the petitioner.

Took Poison and Then Jumped in Front of Auto

John Smiley Lathrop, 22 years old, of Ellenville, an Amherst College junior, Monday evening took a large dose of poison and later threw himself in front of an automobile, according to a dispatch from Amherst, Mass. He is in a critical condition in the college infirmary from the effects of the poison, which he obtained from the college laboratory. The car in front of which he threw himself and by which he was slightly injured, was driven by Dr. H. G. Rockwell, to whom Lathrop had been for medical treatment.

The young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Lathrop of Ellenville, who left late Monday night for Amherst to be with their son.

Young Lathrop was graduated at Ellenville High School and immediately went to Amherst. He had been in the college three years, with one year of absence from his classes, members of his family said. So far as his relatives know he was not despondent and always seemed in a cheerful frame of mind.

John K. Lathrop, the young man's father, is manager of a summer hotel at Lake Minnewaska and also of the Windmere and Cliff Houses.

John Lathrop has a brother, Elliott, who also attends Amherst, and a sister, Miriam, besides his parents. He is a quiet, unassuming young man, residents of Ellenville declare, and while in high school stood high in his studies, but took little part in athletics or scholastic activities.

Farmers' Vote On Amendment

Referendum Among Farm Bureau Members of State Shows Over 80 Per Cent Oppose Child Labor Amendment—Vote in Ulster County—Why Farmers Oppose It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, Feb. 25.—Returns on a state-wide referendum on the proposed child labor amendment recently completed by the N. Y. State Farm Bureau Federation among its members were tabulated at the headquarters office of the federation here yesterday and show that the farmers of the state are opposed to the amendment.

An actual vote was taken in thirteen counties, 2,281 farmers voting. Of this number 2,017 are opposed to the amendment and 264 favor it. In Albany county 236 farmers oppose the amendment, 42 favor it; in Chenango 267 opposed, 81 favor; Chemung 225 opposed, 45 favor; Clinton 202 opposed, two favor; Greene 65 opposed, four favor; Madison 203 opposed, 13 favor; Orange 146 opposed, 22 favor; Orleans 150 opposed, 14 favor; Seneca 98 opposed, five favor; Schuyler 83 opposed, none in favor of the amendment; Ulster 179 opposed, 24 favor; Westchester 70 opposed, 10 favor; Yates 93 opposed, two in favor of the amendment.

In Sullivan county a vote was taken among the farm bureau community committees; the majority were opposed to the amendment. In Jefferson county a vote was taken at several community meetings, the opposition being in the majority each time. The same was true in Erie county. A vote of the advisory council of the Farm Bureau in Wyoming county showed unanimous opposition and a vote of the executive board of the bureau in Schenectady indicated the majority in opposition. At the annual farm bureau meetings in Seneca and St. Lawrence counties action was taken opposing the amendment. The farm bureaus of Essex, Otsego, Monroe and Steuben counties went on record as against the passage of the amendment. A statement from Lewis county indicates that 95 per cent of the farmers in that county are opposed to the amendment and in Chautauqua county all the farm organizations are against it.

Enos Lee, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, in commenting on the referendum, stated that farmers are opposed to the amendment because it makes it possible for agents of the Federal government to interfere with the normal activities of farm boys and girls on the farm. He said the Farm Bureau Federation had passed a resolution opposing the passage of the amendment at its annual meeting in November but that the referendum was taken to make absolutely sure of the attitude of New York farmers.

CHESTER DEYO BREAKS LEG IN A FALL FROM HORSE

Chester Deyo of Foxhall Manor, just outside the city limits, is in the Kingston City Hospital with a broken leg sustained Tuesday on Albany avenue, when he fell from the back of the horse he was riding. He was picked up and hurried to the hospital where he received medical attention.

Whipping Post for Wife Beaters

Maryland Justice Who Invoked Ancient Law and Who Also Gave Jail Sentence to Woman Who Drove Automobile While Drunk, Tells of His Work.

Note:—Magistrate J. Scott Bower, Hagerstown, first Maryland judge of modern times to exhume an ancient law providing whipping post punishment for wife beaters and first to sentence a drunken woman automobile driver to prison, wrote today for International New Service the following outline of what prompted his actions in both cases.

(By Magistrate J. Scott Bower, Written Exclusively for International News Service.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 25.—The only sure cure for the uncurbed brute instincts of the wife beater—although modern society may frown on the practice, is the whipping post.

Medieval punishment should be meted out to medieval crimes.

Going still further further back I support the Biblical saying, "an eye for an eye."

Horrible, atrocious and almost unbelievable deeds to their persons have been brought to my attention by women testifying against their husbands for wife beating. An unusual number of cases of this nature appeared before me one morning last June and it was then I decided to stop this terrible crime against the weaker sex.

Upon serious thought the whipping post was, in my opinion the surest, quickest and most thorough way for its abolition. The humiliation of being pointed out by the community at large as the man who had his back lashed with the cat o'nine tails by the law, had his hands lashed to the cell door, or wherever punishment was administered, in my opinion will cause the individual to show more respect for the law.

The punishment is none too harsh for the man who beats his wife, breaks bones in her body or runs the chance of maiming her for life.

A favorable opinion for such punishment was held by the late Theodore Roosevelt.

While the nineteenth amendment has equalized men and women to some extent, physically and temperamentally, the latter are inferior.

While I was the first justice in Maryland to dig up the old Maryland whipping post law in many years, I was the first magistrate in the state to sentence a woman to jail for driving an automobile while drunk. The woman filed an appeal with the higher courts but her 30-day jail sentence given by me was upheld.

I believe a drunken woman behind a steering wheel is a greater menace to human life than a drunken man. Since last June 22 I have had one wife beating case to try and that man would have received the same sentence as the first, had not the wife refused to testify.

"I have not tried a single case where a woman was arrested for driving while drunk since August 4 when I set a precedent by sentencing to jail the first woman caught operating an automobile in that condition in the county.

Denies She Gave Brothers Poison

Sixteen Year Old Girl on Trial for Murder Says She Mothered Them—Makes Statement to Jury Without Being Placed Under Oath.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Milledgeville, Ga., Feb. 25.—The fate of Mary Claire Berry, 16 years old, college girl, charged with having administered fatal poison to her two young brothers, Amory and Adolphus, was placed in the hands of the jury today after brief summing up by attorneys. She was silent, except for a brief denial that she had poisoned them.

"Gentlemen of the jury," she said as she took the stand, and as Georgia law provides, was permitted to make a statement without being placed under oath. "I am innocent."

"I have done nothing wrong. I did not poison my brothers. If poison was found in their stomachs I do not know how it came to be there. I loved and mothered my little brothers and they loved me. I denied myself that they might have things.

"I was confined in a sanitarium utterly without reason. I know nothing about that."

That is all she has said. She is pretty, demure. She listened to the state's witnesses accuse her of being "queer" and to other testimony that her brothers were poisoned. Her mother sat near her weeping, but Mary Claire was wide eyed and calm.

KURDISTAN ARMY NUMBERS 20,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Constantinople, Feb. 25.—Kurdistan rebels have assembled a force of 20,000 and have reached a position 25 kilometres from Diarbeker, Premier Fethi Bey admitted today. Against them the Turkish government has placed an army of the same size.

Snow in Kurdistan has hampered the movements of federal troops.

An independent Kurdish state is the rebel aim, with the son of Abdul Hamid as king.

Dry Voters Are Wet Drinkers

Congressman's Wife Expects to Show Such Conditions in Washington by Depositions Now Being Procured for Use in Michigan Divorce Suit.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Edna Scott was in Washington today with two lawyers, getting dozens of depositions concerning the gaieties and indiscretions of the capital's social life.

She will present them in broadside fashion to the Alpena, Mich., court on March 10, when it resumes hearing the divorce suit brought by her husband, Representative Frank Scott.

Even more startling evidence than that which rocked social circles of the capital some weeks ago has been quietly gathered here by Mrs. Scott, it was said today. When the case is resumed, Mrs. Scott will be fortified with documents, it was said today, to substantiate her charges that congress is filled with dry voters and wet drinkers.

Mrs. Scott has been hidden here for two weeks, seeing only her lawyers, Ward H. Peck, of Detroit, and J. J. Wilson, of Washington.

Most of the evidence being gathered has to do with the now famous junket to Panama in the spring of 1921. Mrs. Scott testified at the opening of the trial that on this trip there was a general indulgence in liquors by "dry" congressmen.

Mrs. Scott and Peck, following a conference with their most important Washington witnesses, both affirmed their intention of continuing the legal fight along the line already developed.

"At the outset of this case," Peck declared, "there was no idea of bringing in outside personalities. Mr. Scott, however, sought to disparage Mrs. Scott's friends by comparison with his own, and, further, those friends of his injected themselves into the case against us.

"The depositions we are now taking come purely as a defense against charges made by Mr. Scott relative to Mrs. Scott's conduct and her selection of friends. We have been forced into it and we shall see it through."

At Alpena, Scott assailed his wife's army friends, most of whom were in the air service. Mrs. Scott replied, in effect, that congressmen were "higher fliers" than aviators.

Leventhal Tree Crippled Trolley

Wall Street Furrier Indirect Cause of Tying Up Trolley System for Two Hours—Employed Man to Cut Down Tree—It Fell on Feed Wire—Chopper Fainted.

Hyman Leventhal, the Wall street furrier, was the indirect cause of tying up Kingston's trolley system for two hours this morning, and when traffic was finally resumed it was through the efforts of employes of the board of public works who were sent to the scene at the request of Chief of Police J. Allan Wood after Mr. Leventhal had shown no disposition to send more men to the vacant lot on Broadway and assist in clearing away the fallen tree.

This morning Mr. Leventhal employed Balette Lenzo of No. 39 Catherine street to cut down a large tree on the vacant lot on Broadway, adjoining the Nurses' Home of the Kingston City Hospital, opposite the hospital.

In cutting down the tree Lenzo evidently made a miscalculation and the big tree crashed across Broadway, carrying to the ground a number of wires, including the feed wire from which the trolley cars receive the "juice" that drives them over the rails.

As Lenzo saw the unexpected direction in which the tree was falling, he promptly fainted. He was picked up and rushed to the Benedictine Hospital, where it was found he was suffering from shock. He was not touched by the falling tree.

The officials of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad immediately took the matter up with Mr. Leventhal, asking him to send men to the scene and clear away the debris so that the trolley cars could resume operating. When he did not do so, George R. Whittaker, of the trolley company, paid a hurried call to police headquarters and informed Chief Wood of the situation.

The chief called Leventhal on the telephone and when he could get no promise of immediate relief called up the board of public works, who sent men to the scene to speed up the work of clearing away the tree.

The trolley cars were stalled wherever they happened to be when the power went off. As the minutes passed and service was not resumed, many of the passengers became impatient and walked to their destinations.

MEETING OF THREE MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church will be held on Friday afternoon, February 27, at 3 o'clock in the chapel of the church. Mrs. John F. Allen, a representative from the Women's Board of Domestic Missions, will be present and address the meeting, which will also include the missionary societies of the Church of the Comforter and the Fair Street Reformed Church.

West Shore Will Make Survey of Proposed Tunnel

Grade Engineer Brennan of Railroad Writes Work Will Be Started Shortly—B. P. W. Wants Tunnel Under Tracks at Sterling Street—Cornell Street Elimination.

Several months ago Mayor Block brought up at a meeting of the board of public works the question of diverting traffic now passing over the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad through a tunnel under the West Shore railroad tracks at South Sterling street. The board approved of the plan, and the city engineer made a survey and estimate of the cost.

It was then decided to take the matter up with the West Shore railroad authorities to see if they would be willing to pay their share of the cost of the proposed tunnel.

At the meeting of the board held Tuesday evening a letter, under date of February 7 of this year, was read from J. G. Brennan, engineer of grade crossings of the New York Central Lines. Mr. Brennan wrote that bids had been asked for the construction of a new street to eliminate the grade crossing at the lace mills on Cornell street and the bids would be received February 11, and the contract awarded shortly thereafter.

In regard to the proposed South Sterling street tunnel, he wrote that it was the intention of the railroad to start surveys just as soon as weather conditions permitted.

Other matters considered at the meeting will be found elsewhere.

WOOD'S CHINESE VALET RETURNING TO MANILA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Chang, for four years valet to Lieutenant Osborne Cutler Wood before Wood's abrupt departure from Paris after heavy losses at Biarritz gaming tables, departed today for Manila, alone and much broken up. Tears streamed down the Chinese's wrinkled cheeks as he climbed into a third class compartment of a Marseilles train. He refused to eat before his departure.

"What I tell General?" he asked, plaintively, referring apparently to Major General Leonard Wood, father of Osborne Wood, and governor-general of the Philippines. "General say 'Chang, you very bad servant. You no take care Osborne.' How I explain not my fault?

"Poor Mr. Wood. What he going do without me?"

Wood was reported today to be in Madrid, awaiting the arrival from friends of funds with which to pay his passage back to the United States.

TREMAINE AWARDED DECISION OVER MARTIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 25.—Although Eddie "Canonnball" Martin, world's bantamweight champion and his backers vigorously protested, Carl Tremaine, of Cleveland was awarded the referee's decision at the end of twelve rounds of furious fighting at Public Hall here last night.

The battle was one of the best ever staged here. Tremaine carried the fighting to Martin all the way and had a large margin in a majority of rounds.

Martin, however, scored the only knock down of the fight, which came early in the second round. Martin also had the best of the last round.

BRITISH HOME SECRETARY NOW ON SICK LIST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 25.—Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Great Britain's home secretary, was added today to the growing list of notables temporarily removed from public life by illness. He has cancelled all engagements because of influenza.

David Lloyd George's condition was so improved today that he expected to leave his bed and return to London from his country home.

Reports that Viscountess Astor was ill were denied. It was stated she was ordered to take a three weeks' rest.

HOME BUREAU MEETING AT KERHONKSON.

Beginning at 2 p. m., Friday, February 27, the second lesson on food demonstration project will be given to the Home Bureau members of Kerhonkson at the home of Mrs. Humiston. Flood Cellars To Save Houses From Destruction

Willow and Cordts Streets Residents Dig Holes in Floors of Homes to Allow Water Flooding Houses to Run Into Cellars—Petition Board for Relief.

In times of heavy rains and melting snows, residents of Cordts street and Willow street in Ponckhockie have been forced to borrow pickaxes from the neighbors and dig holes in the floors of their homes to allow the water that swept into the houses to run into the cellars and in that way save the houses from being swept from the foundations. For that reason a number of residents of that section of the city not only filed a petition signed by every householder in that vicinity, but also appeared before the board of public works Tuesday evening with Attorney Isidor Sampson, who they had retained to act as spokesman, to ask that the board give much needed relief to those residing on Willow and Cordts streets and also to repair North street, from Delaware avenue te Beach street.

Attorney Sampson said that no repairs had been made to these streets in some time, and the residents were coming to the conclusion that they had been forgotten. Some time ago, he said, several families had a narrow escape from drowning when their homes were flooded with the waters that swept through the streets from the high banks nearby. The condition was such that they were forced to use pickaxes on the floors of their homes to make openings so that the water that flooded the houses could run into the cellars.

One of the delegation at the meeting said that the whole trouble was caused by the Hutton Company in digging a sluice in the bank. Before that had been done, the water had taken care of itself. Now with the sluice open the water swept through the streets and flooded the houses. He said that one of the negro tenants of the Hutton Company had his home flooded to such an extent that to save the house being swept from the foundation, he borrowed a pickaxe and drove holes in the floors so that the water could run into the cellar. From that cellar it seeped through and, running downhill, flooded the house of the next door neighbor.

Mayor Morris Block, who presided at the meeting, said that he was familiar with conditions in that section and that what had been said by Attorney Sampson regarding the condition of the streets there was not exaggerated. He referred the petition to the street superintendent and street committee with power, and asked the committee to see to it that the Hutton Company did its share in abating the flood conditions which assisted in making the streets mentioned almost impassable.

A Gas Pump Ordinance.

The board received several applications for the installation of gas pumps at the curb and after talking the matter over decided to ask Corporation Counsel James Jenkins to draft an ordinance regulating the installation of pumps and to report the ordinance at the next meeting.

Josephine Avenue Sewer.

William Harp has recently completed the erection of six houses on Josephine avenue, near Marius street, and is anxious to have the city build a sewer in the street. He was present at the time with his attorney, Thomas F. Coughlin. The matter was referred to City Engineer Hallinan to report back to the board as to the best plan for running the line of the proposed sewer.

When the Sewer is Stopped.

Several applications from the property owners asking to be reimbursed for plumbing bills brought out the fact that the board has adopted a resolution that when property owners find the sewer is stopped up, they immediately notify the board office at the city hall before having a plumber dig up to ascertain the trouble. If this is not done, the city will not pay for plumbing service, even if the trouble is found to be in the street.

Pumps and Signs.

The Merchants' Credit Association asked permission to install signs on steel posts on Franklin streets, opposite the Keystone gasoline station. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Richard Meyer asked permission to install an electric sign in front of 40 John street. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Harry Neiburn of 73 Broadway asked to have a lighting pole in front of the entrance to his property moved as it interfered with trucks using the entrance. It was referred to the committee on lighting.

Thomas Costello of 240 Foxhall avenue, asked permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of his place. It was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Carhart Corporation asked permission to install electric signs in front of the Kingston Hardware Store at 744 Broadway and store of L. D. Frail at 360 Broadway. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Kingston Savings Bank asked permission to erect a standard at the curb in front of the bank on which to place the clock, now on the bank. The request was granted.

The Nash-Van Sales Company asked permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of property at Washington and Hurley avenues. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

The Broadway Garage, 708 Broadway, asked permission to install an electric sign. Referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Other Matters.

M. Guy Cochrane, station agent of the N. Y., O. & W. Railroad, sent in a communication regarding Fair street extension, and Superintendent Van Keuren stated it had been taken care of.

Residents of South Wall street petitioned for a sewer in that street last year. Since then it has been found if the line of the proposed sewer was changed it would save the property owners money. It was decided that if the property owners signed an amended petition asking for a change in the sewer, it would be built.

A Street Sign Survey.

The city employes will shortly make a survey of the city to ascertain how many street signs are missing. Superintendent Van Keuren placed the number at four hundred. Signs needed will be purchased later.

Dustoline For Streets.

A representative of the Dustoline Company was present and stated that his concern was anxious to do business with the city. They had not sold the board any Dustoline in two years. This is placed on the streets in the spring to lay the dust.

Superintendent Van Keuren stated that it had always given satisfaction when used by him. The price quoted was 14 cents a gallon.

The board decided to purchase a [illegible] gallon car and if it proves satisfactory to purchase more.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

Says Oil Bribe Talk Is "Bunk"

George Gordon Battle Not in France to Defend American Oil Magnates Whose Testimony Is Being Sought by United States Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Despite reports that his stay in Paris would be extended and that he would appear in defense of H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neill, American oil magnates, should they be called into French courts to give what information they may have in connection with the United States naval oil scandal, George Gordon Battle, noted New York lawyer, departed today ostensibly for the United States.

Blackmer was at the station when Battle boarded the 9:30 Olympic boat train this morning. Before sailing, Battle said he had come to Paris merely "to clear up some vague points in Mr. Blackmer's business contracts."

He denied his visit had anything to do with the oil investigation.

Battle's departure from the United States was almost coincidental with that of U. J. Mengert, of counsel for the United States government, said to be the bearer of letters rogatory issued by an American judge in Cheyenne, Wyo., and demanding that Blackmer and O'Neill testify in French courts concerning their alleged part in the case.

Blackmer formerly was head of the Midwest Refining Company in the United States. O'Neill until recently was president of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Battle, in an interview with International News Service, discussed newspaper reports that huge bribes had been passed.

"This talk of a $2,000,000 bribe in the oil case is absolute bunk," he declared vehemently. "So is the story that I came here to defend Mr. Blackmer. Mr. Blackmer needs no defense."

Battle said he was unaware of the reported presence of Mengert in Paris.

"When the French courts receive letters rogatory—if they do—and request Blackmer's testimony," Battle asserted, "he'll give all the information he has, fully and gladly."

Battle said O'Neill is an Cannes, suffering from acute heart trouble.

Blackmer, in whose hotel suite the interview took place, declared he expected to go to Cannes himself within a fortnight.

Automobile Bills Will Be Killed

Republican Leaders Said to Have Agreed on That Fate for Practically All Pending Legislation—Some of the Measures Affected.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Republican leaders of the Legislature have decided to kill virtually every one of the 1925 automobile measures now pending before both houses, it was declared at the capitol today.

The bill sponsored by Assemblyman Goodrich, Westchester Republican, providing for a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline and a reduction in the automobile license fees will not be passed, the leaders indicated.

Assemblyman Lord is the sponsor of a bill providing for a tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline. This, too, will be smothered in committee.

The anti-petting party bill, which would prohibit automobiles from parking on improved highways, except in emergency, will not be passed. A similar measure was defeated at the 1924 session.

Another measure which would prohibit a car from passing another, going in the same direction, on a curve or within 300 feet of the top of a hill, also is slated for the legislative waste basket, the leaders said.

Senate Leader Found Dead in Bed

Medill McCormick, Dies Unexpectedly on Eve of Retirement from Senate—Prominently Mentioned for Ambassadorial Honors—Was Mark Hanna's Son-in-law.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—United States Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinois, one of the Republican leaders of the Senate, died suddenly today at his hotel here from what physicians described as a "gastric hemmorrhage."

He was found dead in bed at 10 a. m. by hotel employes who went to his room and broke down the door after telephone rings went unanswered.

Senator McCormick was up and around shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, but after that he did not answer several 'phone calls which came for him. Unable to secure any answer, W. H. Barse, the hotel manager, went to McCormick's room about 9:45 o'clock and opened the door. He found Senator McCormick undressed and in bed, apparently dead.

Barse immediately called in Dr. Noble Barns who reported that Senator McCormick had died of a gastric hemorrhage. Barse then notified McCormick's secretary and several of his friends and colleagues, including Representative Nicholas Longworth, who immediately came to the hotel.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, one of McCormick's closest friends, was advised that the discovery of the body was brought about by William Hard, a newspaper correspondent, who called at the hotel to keep an appointment with McCormick.

Physicians said McCormick had been dead about an hour when the body was discovered at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. McCormick is en route here from Chicago, having accompanied Mrs. Nicholas Longworth there when the latter's baby was born.

Senator McCormick was 47 years old. He was born in Chicago, May 16, 1877, the son of Robert S. and Katherine Medill McCormick, and was graduated from Yale in 1900.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Ruth McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, and three children.

Elected to the United States senate in November, 1918, McCormick has served continuously since, but was defeated for re-election in the last Illinois primaries.

At the time of his death McCormick was generally believed to be in good health and the news of his death, occasioned great surprise throughout political and social circles in the capital.

Despite his defeat at the polls, McCormick had not intended to retire to private life and was under consideration for appointment as United States ambassador to Paris or some other important European post.

As a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, McCormick came into prominence during the famous League of Nations fight. He was enrolled among the "irreconcilables" who opposed ratification of the Versailles treaty under any consideration.

Formally advised of McCormick's death by his colleague, Senator McKinley, the Senate adopted resolutions of regret and adjourned for the day.

Rumors that McCormick might have taken his own life were dispelled when it was announced that the district coroner was prepared to issue a certificate of death from natural causes.

House Passes Postal Pay Bill

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The postal salary increase bill passed the house today by a vote of 370 to 8.

The bill makes a rearrangement of postal rates on various classes of matter carried by the postal service to increase revenues in order to meet the additional charge for increased salaries to employes. It is estimated that the pay increase will aggregate $68,000,000 a year. The additional revenues from increased charges on matter handled by the postal service is estimated at $61,000,000.

SEIZE WINE AND LIQUOR IN GOVERNMENT TRANSPORT.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25.—A dozen officers and several members of the crew of the government transport Beaufort are expected to be court martialled, it was learned today, as the result of seizure of more than 200 gallons of wines and liquors on the vessel when it arrived in Hampton Roads from the West Indies.

A raid on the Beaufort was made by Captain Wilbert Smith, assistant commandant of the naval base, with the aid of a company of marines.

Frantic efforts were made by the officers and enlisted men on the ship to throw the liquor overboard, according to the raiders.

John Smiley Lathrop, 22 years old, of Ellenville, an Amherst College junior, Monday evening took a large dose of poison and later threw himself in front of an automobile, according to a dispatch from Amherst, Mass. He is in a critical condition in the college infirmary from the effects of the poison, which he obtained from the college laboratory. The car in front of which he threw himself and by which he was slightly injured, was driven by Dr. H. G. Rockwell, to whom Lathrop had been for medical treatment.

The young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Lathrop of Ellenville, who left late Monday night for Amherst to be with their son.

Young Lathrop was graduated at Ellenville High School and immediately went to Amherst. He had been in the college three years, with one year of absence from his classes, members of his family said. So far as his relatives know he was not despondent and always seemed in a cheerful frame of mind.

John K. Lathrop, the young man's father, is manager of a summer hotel at Lake Minnewaska and also of the Windmere and Cliff Houses.

John Lathrop has a brother, Elliott, who also attends Amherst, and a sister, Miriam, besides his parents. He is a quiet, unassuming young man, residents of Ellenville declare, and while in high school stood high in his studies, but took little part in athletics or scholastic activities.

Farmers' Vote On Amendment

Referendum Among Farm Bureau Members of State Shows Over 80 Per Cent Oppose Child Labor Amendment—Vote in Ulster County—Why Farmers Oppose It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, Feb. 25.—Returns on a state-wide referendum on the proposed child labor amendment recently completed by the N. Y. State Farm Bureau Federation among its members were tabulated at the headquarters office of the federation here yesterday and show that the farmers of the state are opposed to the amendment.

An actual vote was taken in thirteen counties, 2,281 farmers voting. Of this number 2,017 are opposed to the amendment and 264 favor it. In Albany county 236 farmers oppose the amendment, 42 favor it; in Chenango 267 opposed, 81 favor; Chemung 225 opposed, 45 favor; Clinton 202 opposed, two favor; Greene 65 opposed, four favor; Madison 205 opposed, 13 favor; Orange 146 opposed, 22 favor; Orleans 150 opposed, 14 favor; Seneca 98 opposed, five favor; Schuyler 83 opposed, none in favor of the amendment; Ulster 179 opposed, 24 favor; Westchester 70 opposed, 10 favor; Yates 93 opposed, two in favor of the amendment.

In Sullivan county a vote was taken among the farm bureau community committees; the majority were opposed to the amendment. In Jefferson county a vote was taken at several community meetings, the opposition being in the majority each time. The same was true in Erie county. A vote of the advisory council of the Farm Bureau in Wyoming county showed unanimous opposition and a vote of the executive board of the bureau in Schenectady indicated the majority in opposition. At the annual farm bureau meetings in Seneca and St. Lawrence counties action was taken opposing the amendment. The farm bureaus of Essex, Otsego, Monroe and Steuben counties went on record as against the passage of the amendment. A statement from Lewis county indicates that 95 per cent of the farmers in that county are opposed to the amendment and in Chautauqua county all the farm organizations are against it.

Enos Lee, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, in commenting on the referendum, stated that farmers are opposed to the amendment because it makes it possible for agents of the Federal government to interfere with the normal activities of farm boys and girls on the farm. He said the Farm Bureau Federation had passed a resolution opposing the passage of the amendment at its annual meeting in November but that the referendum was taken to make absolutely sure of the attitude of New York farmers.

CHESTER DEYO BREAKS LEG IN A FALL FROM HORSE

Chester Deyo of Foxhall Manor, just outside the city limits, is in the Kingston City Hospital with a broken leg sustained Tuesday on Albany avenue, when he fell from the back of the horse he was riding. He was picked up and hurried to the hospital where he received medical attention.

Whipping Post for Wife Beaters

Maryland Justice Who Invoked Ancient Law and Who Also Gave Jail Sentence to Woman Who Drove Automobile While Drunk, Tells of His Work.

Note:—Magistrate J. Scott Bower, Hagerstown, first Maryland judge of modern times to exhume an ancient law providing whipping post punishment for wife beaters and first to sentence a drunken woman automobile driver to prison, wrote today for International New Service the following outline of what prompted his actions in both cases.

(By Magistrate J. Scott Bower, Written Exclusively for International News Service.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 25.—The only sure cure for the uncurbed brute instincts of the wife beater—although modern society may frown on the practice, is the whipping post.

Medieval punishment should be meted out to medieval crimes.

Going still further further back I support the Biblical saying, "an eye for an eye."

Horrible, atrocious and almost unbelievable deeds to their persons have been brought to my attention by women testifying against their husbands for wife beating. An unusual number of cases of this nature appeared before me one morning last June and it was then I decided to stop this terrible crime against the weaker sex.

Upon serious thought the whipping post was, in my opinion the surest, quickest and most thorough way for its abolition. The humiliation of being pointed out by the community at large as the man who had his back lashed with the cat o'nine tails by the law, had his hands lashed to the cell door, or wherever punishment was administered, in my opinion will cause the individual to show more respect for the law.

The punishment is none too harsh for the man who beats his wife, breaks bones in her body or runs the chance of maiming her for life.

A favorable opinion for such punishment was held by the late Theodore Roosevelt.

While the nineteenth amendment has equalized men and women to some extent, physically and temperamentally, the latter are inferior.

While I was the first justice in Maryland to dig up the old Maryland whipping post law in many years, I was the first magistrate in the state to sentence a woman to jail for driving an automobile while drunk. The woman filed an appeal with the higher courts but her 30-day jail sentence given by me was upheld.

I believe a drunken woman behind a steering wheel is a greater menace to human life than a drunken man. Since last June 22 I have had one wife beating case to try and that man would have received the same sentence as the first, had not the wife refused to testify.

"I have not tried a single case where a woman was arrested for driving while drunk since August 4 when I set a precedent by sentencing to jail the first woman caught operating an automobile in that condition in the county.

Denies She Gave Brothers Poison

Sixteen Year Old Girl on Trial for Murder Says She Mothered Them—Makes Statement to Jury Without Being Placed Under Oath.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Milledgeville, Ga., Feb. 25.—The fate of Mary Claire Berry, 16 years old, college girl, charged with having administered fatal poison to her two young brothers, Amory and Adolphus, was placed in the hands of the jury today after brief summing up by attorneys. She was silent, except for a brief denial that she had poisoned them.

"Gentlemen of the jury," she said as she took the stand, and as Georgia law provides, was permitted to make a statement without being placed under oath. "I am innocent."

"I have done nothing wrong. I did not poison my brothers. If poison was found in their stomachs I do not know how it came to be there. I loved and mothered my little brothers and they loved me. I denied myself that they might have things.

"I was confined in a sanitarium utterly without reason. I know nothing about that."

That is all she has said. She is pretty, demure. She listened to the state's witnesses accuse her of being 'queer' and to other testimony that her brothers were poisoned. Her mother sat near her weeping but Mary Claire was wide-eyed and calm.

Dry Voters Are Wet Drinkers

Congressman's Wife Expects to Show Such Conditions in Washington by Depositions Now Being Procured for Use in Michigan Divorce Suit.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Edna Scott was in Washington today with two lawyers, getting dozens of depositions concerning the gaieties and indiscretions of the capital's social life.

She will present them in broadside fashion to the Alpena, Mich., court on March 10, when it resumes hearing the divorce suit brought by her husband, Representative Frank Scott.

Even more startling evidence than that which rocked social circles of the capital some weeks ago has been quietly gathered here by Mrs. Scott, it was said today. When the case is resumed, Mrs. Scott will be fortified with documents, it was said today, to substantiate her charges that congress is filled with dry voters and wet drinkers.

Mrs. Scott has been hidden here for two weeks, seeing only her lawyers, Ward H. Peck, of Detroit, and J. J. Wilson, of Washington.

Most of the evidence being gathered has to do with the now famous junket to Panama in the spring of 1921. Mrs. Scott testified at the opening of the trial that on this trip there was a general indulgence in liquors by "dry" congressmen.

Mrs. Scott and Peck, following a conference with their most important Washington witnesses, both affirmed their intention of continuing the legal fight along the line already developed.

"At the outset of this case," Peck declared, "there was no idea of bringing in outside personalities. Mr. Scott, however, sought to disparage Mrs. Scott's friends by comparison with his own, and, further, those friends of his injected themselves into the case against us.

"The depositions we are now taking come purely as a defense against charges made by Mr. Scott relative to Mrs. Scott's conduct and her selection of friends. We have been forced into it and we shall see it through."

At Alpena, Scott assailed his wife's army friends, most of whom were in the air service. Mrs. Scott replied, in effect, that congressmen were "higher fliers" than aviators.

Leventhal Tree Crippled Trolley

Wall Street Furrier Indirect Cause of Tying Up Trolley System for Two Hours—Employed Man to Cut Down Tree—It Fell on Feed Wire—Chopper Fainted.

Hyman Leventhal, the Wall street furrier, was the indirect cause of tying up Kingston's trolley system for two hours this morning, and when traffic was finally resumed it was through the efforts of employes of the board of public works who were sent to the scene at the request of Chief of Police J. Allan Wood after Mr. Leventhal had shown no disposition to send more men to the vacant lot on Broadway and assist in clearing away the fallen tree.

This morning Mr. Leventhal employed Balette Lenzo of No. 39 Catherine street to cut down a large tree on the vacant lot on Broadway, adjoining the Nurses' Home of the Kingston City Hospital, opposite the hospital.

In cutting down the tree Lenzo evidently made a miscalculation and the big tree crashed across Broadway, carrying to the ground a number of wires, including the feed wire from which the trolley cars receive the "juice" that drives them over the rails.

As Lenzo saw the unexpected direction in which the tree was falling, he promptly fainted. He was picked up and rushed to the Benedictine Hospital, where it was found he was suffering from shock. He was not touched by the falling tree.

The officials of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad immediately took the matter up with Mr. Leventhal, asking him to send men to the scene and clear away the debris so that the trolley cars could resume operating. When he did not do so, George R. Whittaker, of the trolley company, paid a hurried call to police headquarters and informed Chief Wood of the situation.

The chief called Leventhal on the telephone and when he could get no promise of immediate relief called up the board of public works, who sent men to the scene to speed up the work of clearing away the tree.

The trolley cars were stalled wherever they happened to be when the power went off. As the minutes passed and service was not resumed many of the passengers became impatient and walked to their destinations.

West Shore Will Make Survey of Proposed Tunnel

Grade Engineer Brennan of Railroad Writes Work Will Be Started Shortly—B. P. W. Wants Tunnel Under Tracks at Sterling Street—Cornell Street Elimination.

Several months ago Mayor Block brought up at a meeting of the board of public works the question of diverting traffic now passing over the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad through a tunnel under the West Shore railroad tracks at South Sterling street. The board approved of the plan, and the city engineer made a survey and estimate of the cost.

It was then decided to take the matter up with the West Shore railroad authorities to see if they would be willing to pay their share of the cost of the proposed tunnel.

At the meeting of the board held Tuesday evening a letter, under date of February 7 of this year, was read from J. G. Brennan, engineer of grade crossings of the New York Central Lines. Mr. Brennan wrote that bids had been asked for the construction of a new street to eliminate the grade crossing at the lace mills on Cornell street and the bids would be received February 11, and the contract awarded shortly thereafter.

In regard to the proposed South Sterling street tunnel, he wrote that it was the intention of the railroad to start surveys just as soon as weather conditions permitted.

Other matters considered at the meeting will be found elsewhere.

WOOD'S CHINESE VALET RETURNING TO MANILA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Chang, for four years valet to Lieutenant Osborne Cutler Wood before Wood's abrupt departure from Paris after heavy losses at Biarritz gaming tables, departed today for Manila, alone and much broken up. Tears streamed down the Chinese's wrinkled cheeks as he climbed into a third class compartment of a Marseilles train. He refused to eat before his departure.

"What I tell General?" he asked, plaintively, referring apparently to Major General Leonard Wood, father of Osborne Wood, and governor-general of the Philippines. "General say 'Chang, you very bad servant. You no take care Osborne.' How I explain not my fault?

"Poor Mr. Wood. What he going do without me?"

Wood was reported today to be in Madrid, awaiting the arrival from friends of funds with which to pay his passage back to the United States.

TREMAINE AWARDED DECISION OVER MARTIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 25.—Although Eddie "Canonnball" Martin, world's bantamweight champion and his backers vigorously protested, Carl Tremaine, of Cleveland was awarded the referee's decision at the end of twelve rounds of furious fighting at Public Hall here last night.

The battle was one of the best ever staged here. Tremaine carried the fighting to Martin all the way and had a large margin in a majority of rounds.

Martin, however, scored the only knock down of the fight, which came early in the second round. Martin also had the best of the last round.

BRITISH HOME SECRETARY NOW ON SICK LIST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 25.—Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Great Britain's home secretary, was added today to the growing list of notables temporarily removed from public life by illness. He has cancelled all engagements because of influenza.

David Lloyd George's condition was so improved today that he expected to leave his bed and return to London from his country home.

Reports that Viscountess Astor was ill were denied. It was stated she was ordered to take a three weeks' rest.

HOME BUREAU MEETING AT KERHONKSON.

BOY WHO "FRAMED" HIMSELF GETS 25 YEARS IN PRISON

Desire to Appear Tough Causes Youth to Confess Many Crimes.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Ray M. Snodderly, sixteen, of Wichita, Kan., arrested in Council Bluffs, was so anxious to appear "tough" that he confessed to a dozen or more crimes and is now serving 25 years in the Iowa penitentiary without, so far as the police can now discover, ever having committed a single crime. The Council Bluffs courts are unable to release him and his case is to be brought to the attention of the governor with the request that the boy be pardoned.

Snodderly was a boy tramp. For two years he has been tramping around the country, doing odd jobs. But he will tramp no more unless Iowa's governor gives him a pardon.

"I wanted to be known as the world's toughest boy," he confessed, just before he started for the state prison. "I got a great 'kick' out of the story I told. But the kick is all gone now, I'm in for it."

Snodderly's innocence is not based on his own denial of his stories, but on the investigations made by the police since his sentence.

Admits He's Bad Egg.

Snodderly came into the Council Bluffs police station one cold night and asked for lodging. After he had been in the place an hour or so he told the chief of police he was a "bad egg" but that he had repented and wanted to "confess" and get it off his conscience.

Unfolded a Story of Crimes.

The police wanted to know all about it, and Snodderly unfolded a story of crimes in all parts of the country, including hold-ups, robberies, bootlegging, thieving, shooting, burglaries, and a lot of other things.

"Did you have anything to do with the holding up and shooting in Cafe No. 15?" the police asked.

"Yes, I'm the guy that did the shooting," replied Snodderly.

"That was the first I ever heard of Cafe No. 15," Snodderly told, as he was leaving for prison. "The police would ask me if such and such was the case and I would tell them. All my answers were suggested to me by the questions. If I made a mistake, a suggestion would correct me. I made myself out as tough as I could."

But all that came out afterward. At the time Snodderly signed a confession to the Cafe No. 15 robbery, went to court the next day, swore to the crime and to others and received a sentence of 25 years.

Tells of His Gang.

Investigation shows Snodderly was in Kansas City the day of the Cafe No. 15 robbery and painted a flagpole on one of the tall buildings in that city that day.

"My underworld name is 'Scarfinger Ted,'" Snodderly told the Council Bluffs police when making his "confession." "I belong to a gang of 125 gunmen, with Chicago as headquarters. We have a place over there on the lake front with an underground entrance so we can get away if the police surround the place. We take orders from 'Diamond Dick,' our chief.

"'Diamond Dick' carries two pearl handled revolvers—one .38 and one .45 caliber, besides a blackjack. He is a smooth talker, coarse voice, large nose, somewhat flat; scar circles right eye, notch shot in left ear."

Descriptions, down to the smallest detail were then given of "Kansas City Hutch," "Pick-'Em-Up Red," "Two-Trigger Slim," "Shorty," "Carlson," and a lot of others.

"There isn't near the 'kick' in being tough that I thought there was," said Snodderly.

Passengers Go Mad Adrift in Open Boats

Mexico City.—Several passengers of the lost Mexican steamer Isidoro, which was recently sunk during a furious gale in the gulf when enroute from Frontera to Vera Cruz, were picked up in the Caribbean sea, physically exhausted and mentally unbalanced as a result of their sufferings, according to meager private reports received here.

The Isidoro was listed as missing December 28, and it was later given up for lost. The passengers are said to have taken to the boats and passed several days on the open sea attempting to reach land.

BURIED IN STONE 7 HOURS; LIVES

Quarry Foreman Survives Novel Experience.

Gibsonburg, Ohio.—Embedded in a mass of crushed stone for more than seven hours recently while more than thirty workmen labored to save his life was the experience of John Fehlhaber, thirty-six, quarry foreman at the National Motor and Supply company's plant here.

The bin in which Fehlhaber was held prisoner is 30 feet high, 16 feet square and conical in shape. The stone had become frozen and wedged together and Fehlhaber descended on the inside.

In trying to start the stone, without warning the pile let loose, wedging Fehlhaber in the mass. He was caught in the stone and sand up to the waist, one of his legs being doubled up against his body. In this cramped position he was held prisoner seven hours.

Rescuers dared not stand on the stone, fearing it would slide and bury the man. After every other effort at rescue had failed, a hole was drilled through the 18-inch wall of concrete, reinforced with steel, and he was removed.

While the rescue work was in progress, a physician was in constant attendance, administering stimulants. It was said that he is suffering from shock, but will recover.

Orphans Separated 21 Years Reunited by Gypsy

Elyria, Ohio.—Twenty years ago a gypsy fortune teller in Signet, S. D., told Pearl and Earl Culp how to find a brother and sister in northeastern Ohio, from whom they had been separated for 21 years.

The brother and sister wrote a letter and got a reply from one Herman Culp of Berea, Ohio, explaining that he had been placed in a Cleveland orphanage in 1884, with two sisters, Pearl and Mary, and a brother, Earl.

He had never heard of them since his adoption by a Berea family. An attempt was made to locate the other sister. Records could not be found, and the search was abandoned.

Last August Culp was stopped on the street in Berea by a man from Lagrange, Ohio, 20 miles south of Berea.

"Aren't you related to Mrs. Mary Ryan of Lagrange?" the man asked. "You resemble her closely enough to be her twin brother."

Culp drove to Lagrange, located Mrs. Ryan, and, upon comparing dates and places, found her to be his sister.

The four brothers and sisters were placed in the orphanage 41 years ago, following the estrangement of their parents. Pearl and Earl, twins, were then eight, Mary was nine and Herman eleven. They were all adopted a short time later, the twins going to South Dakota, while Mary went to Lagrange, Ohio, and Herman to Berea, Ohio.

The four plan a reunion soon.

Lad of 4 Shoots Girl Who Gave Him Unpleasant Dose

Jackson, Miss.—After he had been persuaded to take medicine commonly prescribed for children, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley of Morton, Miss., shot Miss Martha Mitchell with a small gun given to him by his father as a reward for taking the unpleasant dose. When Miss Mitchell administered the medicine she handed the lad the gun, believed to have been unloaded. He turned it upon the woman and pulled the trigger, the bullet striking her in the right leg and inflicting a severe wound. She was brought to a local hospital for treatment.

Creation of States

Congress in 1780, in order to persuade the states having claims on territories west of the Alleghenies or elsewhere, not included within their confines, to relinquish such claims, promised that it would not hold land surrendered to it as subject territory, but would erect it into states of moderate size as rapidly as population should warrant. This promise has been kept 32 times by the government. Aside from Maine, Vermont and Florida, all the states in addition to the original thirteen have been created in accordance with it.

Let's Try To Explain This Amazing Success

The greatest value on the market—that's the public opinion of the Chrysler, because of the record volume of business it enjoyed in its first year; because of the enthusiasm of its owners and its wonderful records of performance.

The advantages the Chrysler Six offers—advantages hitherto unobtainable—in performance, riding qualities, style and economy have proved irresistible. They have inspired an amazing chorus of public approval the like of which has never before been known in the industry.

It is not alone dashing performance, flashing speed, delightful riding qualities of a surprising nature that have captured the public. Every man who has ever ridden in the Chrysler and any other automobile keenly appreciates what Chrysler engineers have accomplished in the production of superlative performance combined with unusual economy, of riding ease and roominess with compact design and the conservation of space, size and weight.

You will be as eager and as enthusiastic as any to contribute to Chrysler's growing success once you have driven this new type of car. Don't miss a demonstration in the amazing Chrysler.

Bonanza

"Bonanza" is a Spanish word meaning "fair weather" or a "favoring wind." The miners of Comstock lode, a gold and silver mine in Nevada, which yielded 300 millions worth of ore in 20 years, first used the word to signify an abundance of precious metal or rich ore. The word is now also used to signify any good fortune or successful enterprise.

Apples Important Food

Apples are one of the best sources of iron for the diet. Raisins have been advertised for their iron content. It is true that both fresh grapes and raisins as well as plums and prunes furnish this element, but the apple is the heaviest iron-carrying fruit that we can eat, having 20-100 per cent of iron in its makeup.

Eliminate Waste In Making Sales

Commerce Department Bulletin Shows by Maps How Salesmen and Organizations May Increase Income Through Proper Planning of Sales Territories.

"Thousands of dollars are unnecessarily spent each year in covering territory according to state boundaries instead of following lines of natural trade areas," says the Domestic Commerce Division of the Department of Commerce in a pamphlet entitled "planning Salesmen's Territories," just issued.

Too many sales executives look upon the red line of state or county boundary as a bunker which they do not dare to cross, thereby causing one of the most widespread wastes in our distribution machinery, the bulletin continues. If it costs from $30 to $50 per day to keep a good salesman on the road, says the pamphlet, it certainly pays the sales manager to consider most carefully the way to utilize his time to the best advantage. A salesman waiting for train connections at a railroad junction, or doubling back on his track, or stopping just before reaching a good town to avoid crossing a state line, is not getting the best results for himself or the company. Yet this is what happens when territories are laid out with too little regard to transportation facilities and trade areas.

Full consideration must be given, it is pointed out, to the utilization of all the modern methods of communication. Actual examples are cited to the efficient use of automobiles to increase the salesman's ability to make contacts with his customers but this is only desirable after the territory has been analyzed for the density of the market. Bus lines are playing an increasing part in our modern world and sales managers should take these into consideration in planning efficient routes for salesmen.

Not only the success of the sales department is involved in the proper planning of sales territories but also the welfare and happiness of the salesman should be taken into consideration The bulletin points out out that some companies take great care to keep salesmen at work in territories where they may conveniently reach their homes. This also gives full play to the salesman's intimate knowledge of the territory in which he is living.

An analysis of sales plans of a number of concerns has been made showing that remarkable results have been achieved by careful and scientific methods of approach to the problem of properly routing salesmen. Numerous examples taken from actual practice have been cited to show how the country can be covered by salesmen who work their territories from some dominating city in which they live. A full consideration is given to the "star" salesman who is a high salaried man and makes comparatively long jumps between towns.

Methods of covering the markets even as far away as Alaska are given by the bulletin which quotes the plans of houses which are covering that territory from Seattle at the present time. In addition to this, there is a comprehensive survey of not only the large but the smaller territories in the United States with definite suggestions as to the most efficient routing of salesmen to cover them both from the angle of intensity and the class of commodity sold.

The pamphlet, written by G. E. Bittner, of the domestic commerce division, issued as Trade Information Bulletin No. 314, includes a set of six plans to show the wide variety of sales territory plans actually in use. It may be obtained by request to the Domestic Commerce Division, Department of Commerce, at Washington, or upon application to any of its district offices in the various cities.

Did His Best

A young couple, recently married, had been riding with some friends. On reaching home the bride hurried the new husband up to the apartment with orders to start the coffee boiling, while she made a few necessary purchases at a neighboring store. Her consternation at the absent-minded and well-meaning husband was beyond bounds when on hurrying into the kitchen she found the coffee boiling in the new electric percolator on top of the new gas stove, well surrounded by a high flame.—Indianapolis News.

Writers

In a pretty large experience I have not found the men who write books superior in wit or learning to those who don't write at all. In regard of mere information, nonwriters must often be superior to writers. You don't expect a lawyer in full practice to be conversant with all kinds of literature; he is too busy with his law; and so a writer is commonly too busy with his own books to be able to bestow attention on the works of other people.—Thackeray.

No Race Suicide

A resident of Indianapolis tells the story of a woman who lives in his neighborhood, who had her first hospital experience recently as a guest of one of the local hospitals on the occasion of the birth of her sixteenth child. One of her friends who called on her before her return to her home, found her very enthusiastic over the treatment given her in the institution.

"I'm coming here every time after this," she said.

The Thousand Islands

This is the name given to a collection of small islands in the expansion of the St. Lawrence river from the eastern end of Lake Ontario for about forty miles. They are located partly in New York state and partly in Canada. It is estimated that there are from 1,500 to 1,800 islands in the group. Handsome summer residences have been erected on many of the islands.—Kansas City Star.

Brown, Gray, Blue, Colors for Shoes

Hand-Painted Satin Also Featured at Openings in Paris.

Milady's footgear shown at the Paris openings is plain in outline, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The extreme cutaway decolletage of last year is no longer smart—the cut of the spring and summer slippers will be eminently conservative, though with no sacrifice of trim daintiness.

The burden of distinction and chic rests largely with the colors and the supplementary details, and the bottiers of Paris have contributed many interesting divertissements along these lines. Brown, gray and blue are the leading basic colors, and the greatest of these is brown. Golden brown, oak and putty are the principal tints of the brown range, while navy blue and light gray are preeminent among the other colors. In the case of the latter two, red kid is considered modish as a trimming—a typical model is in light gray kid, cut along simple court lines and has a little red strap and narrow ringlets of red kid at the sides. Red, however, and all the other bright and garish hues are distinctly demode except when used as trimmings. Black maintains its place in the mode and is considered quite as smart as it was last season

Dual color combinations are en regle, but the two shades must belong to the same range. A characteristic Riviera model appears in two shades of brown, the lighter hue being employed for the body of the shoe, while the darker shade appears on the trim and the single strap, the latter being attached to the upper corners and serving in place of buckles

A recent innovation along the Rue St. Honore was the introduction of spring shoes in which the two sides of the vamp are in no way similar. One model of this type has a cut-out on one side and a strap on the other. Another, of putty-colored crocodile, has a section of royal blue kid attached to the right side and tapers off on the left side to a narrow strap which buttons onto the quarter. Thus, there appears a marked cut-out on the left side and none at all on the right.

Among the other novelties of the season are hand painted satin shoes, inaugurated in London by the Duchess of York, and the employment of pyrogravure ornamentation in conjunction with kid leathers. Everywhere the tendency is to set off the plain outline and varied but subdued colors of the new French shoes with trim details which are always ingenious and often bizarre.

Lace Trimming Used on Chic Dark Blue Frock

Here is a charming new spring frock of dark-blue silk, embroidered in gray in two different patterns for skirt and bodice. The outfit is greatly enhanced by the collar, jabot and cuffs.

Ostrich Feathers Used in Winsome Trimming

Ostrich feathers in the present style are wholly unlike anything that ever adorned the stately bird. Only trifling bits are used in the novelty ornaments seen on some of the hats; almost never a handsome full plume. But the "made" ostrich, the willow, the modern achievement of handcraft, is the craze of the hour, and new ideas in its form, colors and uses appear almost daily.

The cleverest and showiest of the ostrich trimmings are done in two colors, giving opportunity for the greatest number of delightful and artistic combinations. The vogue of the rainbow color scheme in many things, in dress crepes and chiffons, tulles, nets, in scarfs and ribbons, has caught up feathers into the kaleidoscope and the most fairylike effects are being brought out.

ROSE-GORMAN-ROSE

Black and White Gown With Colorful Girdle

Severe black and white creations promise to be popular this spring. An effective Chinese girdle of blue crepe, embroidered with gold thread and gold spangles and a blue and gold tassel affords a winsome feature. A large mushroom hat of black taffeta completes the outfit.

Old-Fashioned Jewelry Comes Into Limelight

Old-fashioned jewelry in onyx, set with pearls and diamonds, is more sought after than ever before, and there is a fascination in searching the out-of-the-way shops for the sweet old brooches and earrings, necklaces and ornaments that grandmother thought so elegant. Their charm endures, and they serve as patterns for much of the jewelry that is now in the very height of fashion. The most ultra novelties are done in the style of these fads and fancies of so long ago.

Vanity cases in the newest forms, and costing money, are made of onyx and set with brilliants, a monogram or motif in some pretty [illegible] design. Cigarette cases, coin purses and chic little containers for powder and a tiny puff are all of this same idea and are going exceedingly well.

The one item in real jewelry that appears to have lost its prestige is the ring. It was once thought to be stylish to wear several rings, the more rings the better evidence that one was rich and fashionable. But lately one sees comparatively few diamond and other jewel-set rings, oftenest but one very handsome ring, particularly if it chances to be an engagement ring. As to that, some of the most chic young women are declining to wear a ring as an engagement symbol, preferring a bracelet or some other ornament, setting aside a long honored custom.

As rings have gone out somewhat, bracelets, wide antique shapes, slender jeweled styles and the very narrow bangles that almost cover the arm from wrist to elbow are more and more the rage

Paris Women Turning to Subtlety and Softness

Bobbed hair and overbright complexions, hard hats and barbaric jewelry appear to be on the decline, and cigarettes and slang among the feminine smart set are less aggressively indulged in than in past seasons. Such are the conclusions reached, writes a Paris correspondent, after attending numerous Parisian social functions.

Hard boiled manners and a high complexion were found to be all wrong as a setting for dresses made of soft kasha in pastel shades, soft silks and muslins and hats with flowing lines. The trend of the hour is toward subtle charm and softness

Color, however, is playing a much greater part in Paris fashion than at any time previously since the armistice. Black dresses have become less popular and light colors have been steadily on the increase.

The short skirt has had a new lease of life, but is slightly fuller in the back. Sleeves, for evening dress, are also more popular, and the bare arm is no longer considered essential for elegance in dress. The bare back also is less common, and very low-cut dresses rarely are seen except among the show girls.

Favored Neckline for Milady's Dainty Duds

The so-called off-the-shoulder remains the favored neckline for nightrobes.

The neckline is not new. As a matter of fact it was seen three or four years ago. The line from shoulder to shoulder is straight at both back and front, and a triangular section, inserted over the shoulder, gives a smart fitted appearance.

There are many possible versions, some involving lace, others restricting themselves to embroidery. Thread run alencon adapts itself especially well to the treatment. Eyelet embroidery and embroidered scallops may provide decoration, or it may be multiple rows of hand-drawn work that give a delicate openwork effect to the shoulder, front and back sections.

Wasteful Men

"Why, Jeremiah Jones!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones when her husband came in safe and sound from a railroad journey. "Is this you?"

"Why, of course," said her husband, "this is the time I expected to come home, isn't it?"

"And you haven't had an accident nor lost your arms and legs or been killed?"

"How many times must I tell you that nothing has happened?" said the irritated man.

"Well," declared the good lady, "you do beat all. There you went and paid good money for an insurance ticket just before you left, and you haven't done a thing to get the reward. That's money just wasted. Nice manager you are, Jeremiah Jones!"

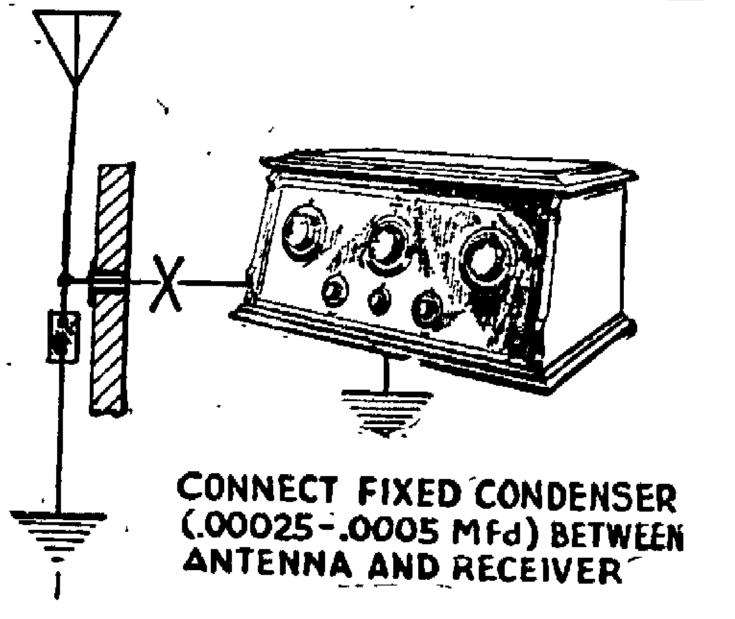
Everyday Radio

BY KIMBALL HOUTON STARK



CONNECT FIXED CONDENSER (.00025-.0005 MFd) BETWEEN ANTENNA AND RECEIVER

SHORTEN YOUR ANTENNA AND INCREASE YOUR SELECTIVETY

When using a medium priced radio receiver, located for instance in the heart of a large city and surrounded by several powerful broadcasting stations, the receiver will many times seemingly display a lack of both selectivity and sensitivity. In general, it has been found that such receivers, especially when installed by the uninitiated, have an antenna much too long. The length of an antenna, by the way, includes the length of the lead-in and ground wire. Particularly on apartment houses, one is apt to find a flat top antenna 60 or 70 feet long, with a lead-in attached which runs from the top of the house to the first floor, being invariably 100 to 150 feet in length. The result is a large amount of energy is picked up by such an enormously long antenna, overloading the vacuum tubes, and despite the efficiency of the tuning circuits, extremely poor overall receiver selectivity is obtained.

The solution for such trouble is usually very simple. The antenna should be shortened until its length is not over 100 feet, including the length of the lead-in and ground wire. In addition to this, a fixed condenser having a capacity of from .0001 to .00025 microfarads may be connected in series with the antenna. This means that the antenna wire is connected to one terminal of the condenser and the other terminal of the condenser is connected with the antenna binding post on the receiver. A usual grid condenser may be used for this purpose very nicely.

Remember, that to increase the selectivity of a radio receiver, reduce the length of the antenna or insert a small condenser having a capacity as indicated above in series with the antenna. In case of necessity, do both of these things. Usually, if this is done, and if the receiver is very carefully operated, the results will be surprising compared to the results formerly obtained.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB 25, 1925

THE "WICKEDEST" CITY.

The charge of the Congregational ministers of Illinois that Chicago is the wickedest city in the world is denied by the Tribune of the same city, but the self-styled "world's greatest newspaper" admits Chicago's "bad record in crimes of violence," with its 350 murders last year as compared with 347 in New York with more than double the population. Yet it appears that something like authority is exercised on the lowest levels as well as on the surface of things in Chicago We read that two "kings" rule the city's underworld, one controlling the spoils of vice and gambling and the other dominating the illicit liquor traffic.

It is interesting to find that the foreign-born show up better in Chicago's crime statistics than might have been predicted. For example, the city's "black belt" contributed 150 of last year's 350 murders, while the Italian district contributed 51 and the Chinese only three. According to a resume of Chief of Police Collins's report, "much of the slaying is now concentrated" and in consequence "the better parts of the city are relatively safe places to live in." This means it is to be hoped, that people are held up on their way to evening church meetings less often than were reported to be a few years ago. The Crime Commission complains that in the past three years penalties were inflicted in less than 36 per cent of the cases of accused murderers arrested and tried, but this looks like a rather encouraging feature of the situation, for it is doubtful if many other centers of population can show as high a percentage of punishments in like cases. Chief Collins pointedly blames "politics" in the appointment of judges, prosecutors and other public officers.

MODERN MALE AND FEMALE.

The shaved faces of men and the exposed "limbs" of women are signs of the times, according to Arthur Ponsonby, M. P., who writes in The Empire Review. Contrasting the bushily whiskered men and the elaborately covered women of the Victorian era with what he sees in England now, he concludes that "when virility is at its height the female seeks defense in her draperies," but "when virility is at a low ebb the female exposes herself to attract the reluctant male." However that may be, it is quite true that in the mid-Victorian period even the most refined dandy grew hairy gardens on his cheeks, while even the little girl, not yet allowed to trail long draperies to the floor, modestly hid her ankles under "pantalettes," and she soon learned to faint, like her mother, on slight provocation.

And now that shaving for men is practically universal, the young woman's frock stops at her knees when she does not appear in her chosen variety of "pants" called "knickers" or otherwise affects a mannishness in both dress and manner. "In cafes and restaurants," says Mr. Ponsonby, "you will see the girl stride in with an air of mastery and assurance, her brimless hat crushed over her eyes, a long cigarette holder suspended from her lips, and behind her trots a little man. She orders the meal, and if there is any swearing at the waiter to be done she does it." And what will happen when her rising skirt and descending waist line meet nobody knows" Whether Mr. Ponsonby's views be fully accepted or not, it is impossible to escape the admission that the startling contrast between the conditions of 1865 and 1925 is verifiable history.

The National Anti-Tobacco Association will launch "a great anti-tobacco campaign" from Washington during inauguration week. It does not look as if this movement to eradicate another appetite of the people can ever get as far as a constitutional amendment, but you never can tell.

A resolution in favor of excluding all but native-born citizens from the Supreme Court, the President's Cabinet and the speakership of the House of Representatives has been adopted by the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, who obviously have taken their cue from the ban already existing in the case of the President's office There have not been many and are not likely to be many of the foreign-born in these positions, but there is a very old precedent for occasional selection in the case of Alexander Hamilton, who, a few years before he rose high in American councils was a young Englishman of the West Indies.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act),

"SWEETENING" THE STOMACH AND INTESTINE.

You hear a great deal these days about acidity, acid stomach, hyperacidity, all meaning the manufacture of too much of the acid juice which digests the food in the stomach.

There is no question but that too much meat, eggs, and fruits, (not usually ripe fruit,) all have a tendency to cause this extra acidity, and cause what is known as acid indigestion.

Accordingly in an endeavor to prevent this condition, you may decide to eat a great quantity of bread, and find that you are not any better, perhaps even worse.

You see the acid condition of your stomach has persisted for such a long time, that the stomach has got the habit of manufacturing an excessive quantity. Thus when you eat bread and it arrives in the stomach, this tremendous quantity of acid juice immediately pounces upon it.

What happens then?

Why the action, the alkaline action, of your saliva or mouth juice, which has been acting on this bread food, is overwhelmed and quits work entirely, instead of completing its work of starch digestion.

What does this mean?

That this undigested starch actually stagnates in the stomach, and becomes really an irritant of the stomach lining, and so more and more stomach juice is manufactured, causing an even greater acidity of the stomach.

What is my suggestion?

That bread is all right in this condition if eaten properly, that is that the slices should be thin, should be baked or toasted dry, with very little butter on them.

The next important thing is to chew it well. It should be chewed and chewed in this dry state, without liquids, so that the saliva can get well mixed up with the very small particles into which the food is divided by this extra amount of chewing. This permits digestion of the starches to begin right where it should begin, that is in the mouth. Remember then that bread can cause acidity if eaten too rapidly, and therefore your excessive acidity is not necessarily due to meats, cereals, and raw fruits.

TWO ASSAULT CASES UP BEFORE JUDGE McKENZIE

Judge Henry E. McKenzie held court Tuesday in Port Ewen when two assault cases came before him for trial. In the first case Vincenzio Dazzo had Frank Sobello arrested on a charge of assaulting him. Both reside in Port Ewen. After hearing the evidence Judge McKenzie dismissed the complaint

After several adjournments the trial of the charge of assault in the third degree brought by Anna Schiskey of South Rondout against William H. Lake of Meadow street, this city, was taken up for trial. The complainant alleged that some time ago in an argument at her home in South Rondout the defendant became incensed over a remark and struck her, knocking her over some chairs.

Tuesday she informed Judge McKenzie that she felt sympathy for Mr. Lake's second wife, whom he recently acquired, and for that reason did not care to press the charge. A motion to dismiss was granted, provided that all the costs were paid by the defendant, which was done.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Feb. 25, 1905.—Fair at Temple Emanuel on Abeel street opened.

James Ennist and Miss Susie McGuire married at Saugerties.

Max Gerber and Miss Anna Paul married at home of the bride in this city.

Feb. 25.—1915.—Rondout creek overflowed its banks flooding parts of the Strand.

Mrs. Cornelius L. Schoonmaker died at her home on Henry street.

The charred bodies of Henry Canfield and his wife were found in the ruins of their burned home at Kerhonkson Heights. It was thought that the aged couple had been overcome by smoke while asleep.

Raymond F. Chidsey and Miss Harriet Lowe Sutton married in Plainfield, N. J., by the Rev. Philip B. Strong, a former pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

And It Was Rubinstein!

Henry T. Finck in his book entitled "Musical Laughs" speaks of a lady living in a German hotel, who was greatly annoyed by persistent practicing in a room adjoining hers. Finally she wrote a note to say that she could not stand the racket and begged the pianist to stop. The maid who delivered the note came back with another containing the following: "Very sorry to have annoyed you. Your request is granted. —Anton Rubinstein."

Elimination of Grade Crossings

Not To Be Acted Upon by the 1925 Legislature Is Present Indication —Legislative Committee Not Able To Complete Its Work by March 1.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Albany, Feb. 25—Governor Smith's proposed amendment to the state constitution to provide a $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of grade crossings will not be acted upon by the 1925 legislature, it was indicated at the Capitol today.

The joint legislative committee recently created, to investigate the grade crossing problem was to report back to the present legislature not later than March 1. It was reported today, however, that the committee will not be able to complete its work by that date and that it will ask that its life be extended for another year It that is done, then no action will be taken at the present session on the governor's proposal.

When the resolution creating the committee was up for debate in the legislature. Democrats in both the senate and assembly charged, that its only purpose was to delay action on the governor's proposal This was denied by Assemblyman Davison, Nassau, Republican, who sponsored the resolution in the lower house

Right at the start Senator Knight, Republican of the upper house, and Senator Hewitt, chairman of the finance committee, were anxious to have the resolution amended so the committee would not have to report until the 1926 session. As a matter of fact, the resolution was amended in committee in the upper house extending the life of the investigating committee for a year but Speaker McGinnies, Republican leader of the house refused to stand for the amendment

After they had amended the resolution, Senator Knight and Senator Hewitt were forced to change it back to its original form because of the firm stand taken by Speaker McGinnies

Under the governor's plan the railroads would pay 50 per cent of the cost of elimination, the state 25 per cent and the locality the other 25 per cent. Some of the Republicans insisted that it was too much to expect small localities which might have three or four crossings or more, to pay 25 per cent of the cost of elimination The one purpose of the investigation, according to some Republicans, was to find out if the cost of elimination could not be more equitably distributed.

Senator Hewitt is chairman of the committee which is now making a survey of the grade crossing elimination problem.

FIRST U. S. BANK.

The pioneer bank of the United States was established 134 years ago today. Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury, was the originator of the plan, which failed.

The early history of state banks was, generally speaking, an unsavory one, as the charters were often fraudulently obtained, and currency issued to three times the amount of their capital.

Many of these banks suspended during the panic in 1814, and others in 1837 and in 1857. Sixty-two years ago today the National Banking system of the United States was organized.

THERESA EMILIA HENRIETTA WINCKEL.

Was born in Dresden in 1784, and was justly celebrated for her copies of old masters.

Her copies of Corregio's works were said to be unequalled. In 1808 she went to Paris with her mother, to study the great works of art there. Her letters from that city were published and she also wrote articles for periodicals. She began to study the art of painting at first for her own gratification, but her mother losing her fortune, she supported them both by her art.

THE MARYLAND ASSEMBLY.

The first Colonial Assembly to enjoy the rights of initiating legislation, was the Maryland Assembly which convened at St. Mary's, Md., 286 years ago today. The first session of the Maryland Assembly was held in 1635, and was composed of representatives of the whole people—a purely democratic legislature In the beginning every adult male citizen was permitted to sit in the Assembly, but, with the increase in population, it was found necessary to limit the members, although there was still no legal restriction on the number of delegates the people might send. Under the charter Lord Baltimore had the power of enacting all necessary laws for the colony "with the consent and approbation of the freemen of the province." The Assembly demanded the right of initiating legislation, however, and this was granted by Lord Baltimore in 1638, and the following year the Assembly met and enacted the first statutes of Maryland. In their law-making the pioneer Marylanders were entirely independent of the British parliament, enjoying a greater degree of autonomy than any other English colony.

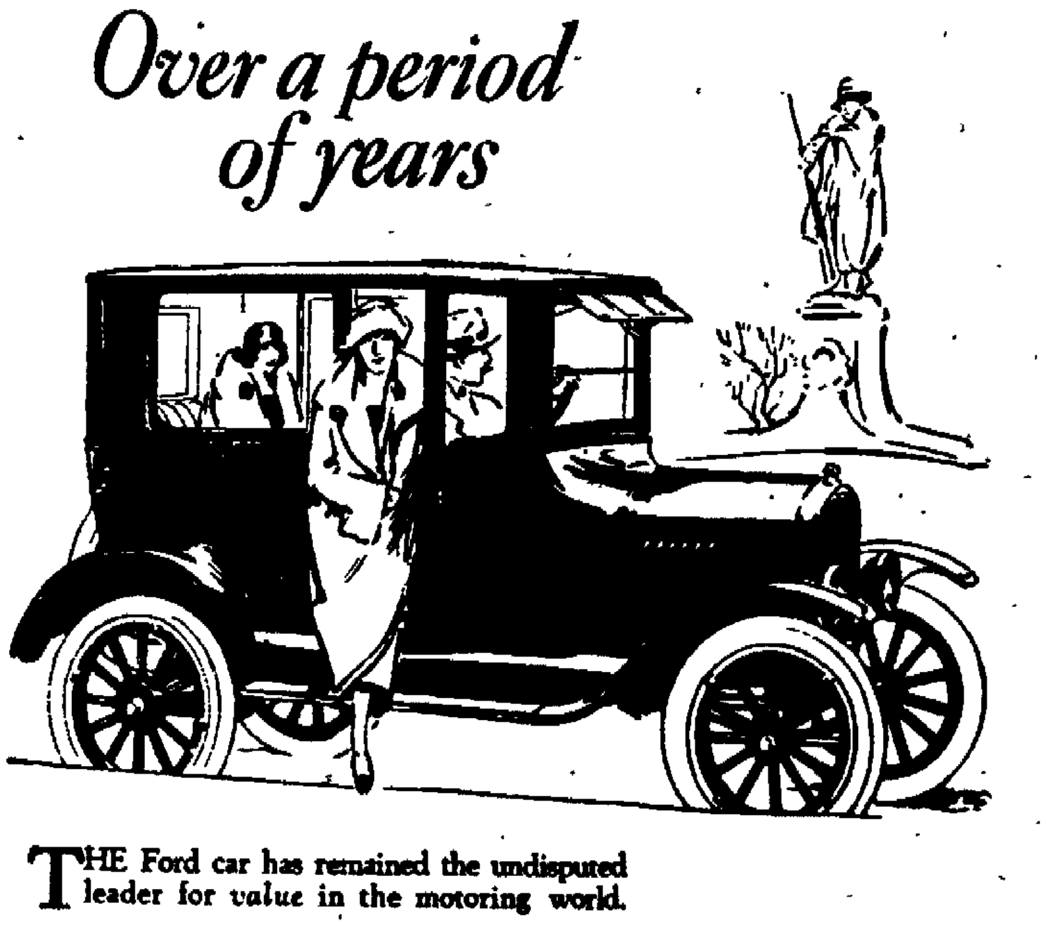
Over a period of years



THE Ford car has remained the undisputed leader for value in the motoring world.

There are certain fundamental reasons why this is true. It is a car, properly designed and staunchly constructed, having a motor which has proved itself reliable, long-lived and economical.

It is adequately serviced by an organization reaching to every community and neighborhood.

These combine to give the Ford car the highest resale value in proportion to list price.

And as production volume of the Ford has grown the purchase price has been steadily reduced.

CHIROPRACTIC

and Your Work

Question—"I am continually a sufferer with nervousness, insomnia and general weakness, which handicaps me in giving my employer the service I am paid to give. I have been advised to take a course of Chiropractic. Will it interfere with my work in any way?"

ANSWER—Whatever your vocation in life may be, it will be all the more enjoyable to you, and more profitable to your employer, if you possess good health. We say that your symptoms point to nerve pressure; the symptoms are effects, the nerve pressure the cause. Experience with just such cases makes us feel secure in saying we believe your condition will respond very readily to the proper adjustments. And what a relief that will be. How much more you can enjoy your work. How much more valuable your services will become; in fact, how much more you can enjoy your whole life when you have regained physical and mental health. There will be nothing in Adjustments that will interfere with your work; on the other hand, you will feel better able to work.

My dear Dr. Broberg:

I was in a bad state from nervousness, insomnia and headache. After your first treatment felt relaxed. In a week was sleeping and headaches much relieved. Through my own carelessness I neglected to go for treatments for over a year when I again through shock became much worse than first time, and in Madison where you conducted a place for convalescents your treatments again put me on the road to perfect health.

Dear Doctor:

I have been doctoring for the past ten years for rheumatism as well as stomach troubles without any show of improvement, for when the medicines relieved one ailment they usually resulted in another, and so am surely delighted to have at last found a treatment that has shown such a decided improvement.

Decrease in Cancellations

Dairymen's League Reports Less Withdrawals Than Last Year at Same Time—Cancellations Little More Than Normal.

According to recent announcements from the New York office of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., the total number of cancellation notices received from pooling dairymen up to and including February 21, the middle of the withdrawal period, was 626. This number is quite a bit less than the number of cancellations reported at the same time in the withdrawal period a year ago.

The period during which members of the association can cancel their contracts extends from February 12 to 28.

Cancellation notices received by the league to date have not come from any particular section but are well scattered over the territory embraced by the pooling association. League farmers in close touch with the affairs of the association say that the total number of withdrawals this year will be considerably less than a year ago and will hardly be more than might be normally expected in any year. The annual withdrawal period is a period of readjustment when those members who have discontinued dairying may cancel their contracts. During this period the association itself may also exercise its privilege of canceling certain contracts if it sees fit to do so. Up to date the league has never exercised this privilege to any great extent but it is expected that it may do so this year.

"Old Deacon Jones wants me t' be pallbearer at his wife's funeral again," snapped Ragson Tatters.

"Well, you're going to be aren't ye," asked his wife.

"I dunno hardly. I dunno what to do. Y'see when the deacon's fust wife died I was pallbearer. When his second wife died he asked me again an' I did Then he married thet Perkins gal an' when she died I was the same again, and now—wal I jest don't like t' eb all the time acceptin' favors 'thout bein' able to return 'em."

We never could understand why so much fun was poked at prunes. They are fine examples of the art of growing old gracefully.

The fate of the Missouri man who dropped dead while washing dishes for his wife should be a warning to other husbands.

Tax figures are thrilling. Now the treasury department should tell us how many rich men really wear silk pajamas.

A man is old when he can quit a warm spot in bed and face the chill morning without reluctance.

"Stealing a march on them," said the man in the music shop, putting one of Sousa's records under his coat.

"The sweetest girl I ever kissed,"
Said gay young Malcolm.
"Used powdered sugar on her face,
Instead of talcum."

Another way to save many steps in the kitchen is to carry the can opener in the apron pocket.

The ambition of our life is to see two joy killers have a fight.

"Your lips aren't half as bad as they're painted," he said ecstatically.

They are always two ways of looking at everything, especially if you are cross-eyed.

Neighbor—"Really, your family is very musical. It must be a source of great pleasure to you. Your youngest son is a cornetist, both daughters pianists and your wife a violinist. Now what are you?"

Mr. Petite—"I'm a pessimist."

When the savage red man lived in a wigwam he paid no rent. What was it then that made him savage?

The first time a girl is kissed she doesn't think it necessary to say it is the first time.

No one has as yet invented a muzzle for mosquitos. It might be a paying venture.

No matter how angry a girl may be, she always makes up.

Plans are nearly completed for a New York building to be eighty stories high—with the rent in proportion.

Trace Air Mishaps

London.—Most aviation accidents are due to slight errors of judgment, according to a recent analysis made of more than 300 mishaps in the royal air force.

It was found that of 60 per cent of the accidents, due to errors in judgment, only a small number befell pupils at flying schools, while a large number were caused by carelessness among recently graduated pilots.

AMERICAN LEGION FUND IS GROWING

As final preparations were being made in Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky to start active work on the American Legion Endowment fund, preliminary steps were taken to extend the movement to a second group consisting of 12 states, most of them in the South. The states in the second group are: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, West Virginia and Ohio.

At the same time it was announced that Judge Rogert W. Bingham of Louisville, editor and publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has accepted the chairmanship of the executive committee to direct the endowment movement in Kentucky.

Stearns post, Stearns, Ky., a mining town with a population of 121, is the first Legion post in the entire country to "go over the top" in the movement. The goal for the post was set at $100. Twenty-four hours after the post learned the amount, a check for $100 was on its way to national headquarters at Indianapolis.

The first posts to send contributions for the fund to national headquarters were Eugene post, Eugene, Ore., and C. H. Berry post, Tamaqua, Penn. The Oregon post sent $75, and the other, $17.18. Adjutant Arthur S. Wolfe, of the Tamaqua post, said, "This represents the voluntary contributions from the members of this post, such contributions having been taken after each post meeting for the last few months."

Cardinal O'Connell of Boston was the first member of the national honorary committee for the fund to contribute to it. His contribution was also among the first received.

Lloyd W. Kendall, Legionnaire of Farmer City, Ill., sent a check for $5 for the fund. "I am very strong for this move," he said, "and only wish I was financially able to donate $50 or $500."

William B. Boggs, commander of the department of Panama, cabled that "the Canal Zone pledges $2,500 to the fund." The foreign departments of the Legion were given no quotas but asked to give what they could. Panama was the first to respond.

Hon. John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, cabled from Paris that he is glad to serve as a member of the national honorary committee for the fund. Other recent acceptances on the committee are: Mrs. Mary Lord Harrison, New York city, wife of the late President Benjamin Harrison; William Green, Washington, president of the American Federation of Labor; Otto H. Kahn, New York banker; Will H. Hays, New York city, president of Motion Picture Producers and Distributers, Inc.; John R. Quinn, Los Angeles, past national commander of the American Legion; Bishop Charles H. Brent, Buffalo, chief of the chaplain service in the A. E. F.; Booth Tarkington, Indianapolis, author; V. M. Johnson, Rockford, Ill., president of Kiwanis International; James E. Chandler, imperial potentate of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine; Charles Dana Gibson, New York city, artist; Gen. James A. Thomas, Dublin, Ga., commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans; Gen. John H. Dunn, Boston, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; John Drew, New York city, actor.

Predict Veterans Will Seek State Home Care

"In a few years," predict American Legion officials of Lincoln, Neb., "World war veterans will ask admission in great numbers to state homes, and states throughout the country will have to make proper provision for them." The government has adequate facilities to care for indigent and helpless veterans at present, say the Legionnaires, but later the state will have to supplement government aid.

This prediction was made in the face of a survey revealing that there are fewer soldiers in state homes in Nebraska now than there were in 1921. Deaths among the veterans of the Civil war account for the decrease, the Legionnaires point out. Within a few years World war veterans will be clamoring to enter the state homes, they maintain.

Massachusetts Ahead

At Pittsfield, Mass., recently, for the first time since the inception of the American Legion in Massachusetts, it went into state convention with black ink figures, instead of red ink, on the balance sheet, according to a statement of Treasurer E. W. Gross. Massachusetts department of the Legion was $10,000 in debt in January, 1923; as against the $279.50 to the good at this time.

Cup for Minnesota Post

Gerald V. Barron of Cloquet, Minn., past department commander of the American Legion, announces he will donate a cup to the Legion post in the Department of Minnesota having the best and most consistent record for the past five years. The trophy will be given at the next department convention.

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, Feb. 24.—Mrs. J. R. Halmshaw, counsellor of the Young Ladies' Standard Bearers Society of the Methodist Church, entertained the members at dinner last Friday evening. Covers were laid for twenty. The menu consisted of grape cocktail, baked ham, scalloped potatoes, egg souffle, Valentine sherbet, fruit salad, ice cheam, pastries, candies and chocolate. The program was appropriate of Valentine Day. Partners were chosen by stringed hearts. The guests made Valentines for which prizes were awarded and the games were those that go well with the season of the year. The Standard Bearers is a young ladies' missionary society. The New Paltz Chapter is in a very flourishing condition. Among other tasks they have assumed the responsibility of the education of a girl in the Knowles School at Kin Kiang Ki, China.

Solomon Lefevre of Forest Glen and Fred Depuy of New Paltz, are among those drawn to serve as grand jurors at the term of Ulster County Supreme Court at Kingston March 2.

John Furgeson, Jr., Claude Alsdorf, Philip Ayers, Fred DuBois and C. L. Van Orden, all of New Paltz, are drawn for trial jurors.

Miss Margaret Brundage of Gardiner, visited New Paltz on Tuesday.

Miss Helen Hasbrouck and Miss G. C. Lefevre were among other New Paltz people who heard Mme. Matzenauer's song recital in Poughkeepsie last Saturday night.

James Thorne of Wallkill, father of Miss Beatrice Thorne, spent the week-end with his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Van Kuren, on Eltinge avenue.

On Sunday, February 22, Mrs. George O. Vradenburgh celebrated her 87th birthday at her home on Tricor avenue. Mrs. Vradenburgh is in good health and attended Sunday school and church on that day. In the afternoon several members of the Seekers' Class of the Methodist Sunday school, of which Mrs. Vradenburgh is a member, called to congratulate her and spend a social time with her. Mrs. Edith Van Valen, secretary of the class, made and presented her with a house made of birthday post cards with a dainty envelope hidden inside containing a five dollar gold piece in behalf of the members of the class and friends. Mrs. Vradenburgh was wonderfully delighted with the gift and expressed it with repeating her thanks many times. The Sunday school also presented her with a lovely bouquet of carnations. A number of other friends remembered her with personal gifts. The afternoon was spent very pleasantly. Mrs. John Denzlinger, Mrs. Vradenburgh's daughter, with whom she makes her home, served light refreshments. These guests departed about 4 o'clock expressing their wish of spending Mrs. Vradenburgh's next birthday with her. A number of friends called as early as Saturday afternoon to extend congratulations. Her son and grandson from Beacon were also present on Sunday to spend the day with her. Mrs. Vradenburgh was the recipient of many post cards which she greatly appreciated among her other gifts, of which one was a box of oranges from her cousin in Florida.

The American Telephone Company line gang, who are making their headquarters at Poughkeepsie, are making some necessary repairs to the company's line between Highland and New Paltz.

Mrs. Solomon Van Orden entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Club last week.

Miss Mary Nilon was hostess at the Grange meeting held Saturday night.

The Study Club members enjoyed a fine program on Tuesday afternoon. Those having a part were Dr. M. K. Smith, Mrs. Friend Wilklow, Mrs. Clapp, Miss Gage and Mrs. Alexander. Subjects were on Italy.

Mrs. George Doxey writes a very interesting letter to friends from Arizona, where she and her husband now are. They are traveling mostly by auto.

Miss Beatrice Roosa, who has been home sick for several weeks, has returned to her duties at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Miss Stina Shook spent the week end at her home in Rock City.

Miss Griffin, a representative of the Wicks Platform Entertainment Service of Boston, was in Marlborough several days the past week to secure guarantors for a lyceum course there.

Miss Helen Hasbrouck visited Mrs. Frank Baker recently at Marlborough.

Mr. and Mrs. James Deyo of Lloyd spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Palmatier.

Mrs. Thomas Krom of Tricor avenue has branches of mountain laurel in water that is in blossom.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb Kniffen entertained guests from Kingston on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Miss Hilda Gerald is ill at her home on South Chestnut street.

Mrs. Walter Hasbrouck is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon E. DuBois of New York city, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Louis LeFevre.

Mrs. Oscar Zimmerman is spending two weeks visiting relatives in Philadelphia, Allentown and New York.

The students at the Holden Cottage have been obliged to move as the house has been sold. Four of the girls have gone to Mrs. Flood's on Oakwood Terrace and two to Mrs. Joe Lefevre's.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harcourt, who have gone to Florida for a short vacation, are staying at Tarpon Inn, Useppa Island.

The New Paltz-Kingston bus has not missed a single trip so far this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram P. Lefevre left for Miami, Florida, on Wednesday.

Andrew Deyo, Jr., who was operated on at the Vassar Hospital last week, is doing nicely and is expected to leave the hospital soon.

Miss Eliza I. Raymond has given up her position with the Highland Post to care for an aunt in Franklin, Pa.

Mr. Korn of Kingston has been in our village selling copies of "Treat 'Em Square," a magazine published in New York and devoted to the interest of the ex-service man.

A good sum was made at the party given by the ladies of St. Joseph's Church in Grange Hall last Saturday night.

Edna Hopkins, who has been substituting in Middletown for a week, has returned to school here.

Last Friday night the pupils of the New Paltz Normal held a week-end party in the gymnasium. A program was enacted by a number of the girls and many other things added to the fun. Every one enjoyed punch and crackers. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Tuesday evening the Delphics held a banquet at Tammey's Hotel. An excellent dinner and humorous stories added to the evening's enjoyment.

Judson Addis of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Beatty.

W. E. Archer, principal of the high school at Wappingers Falls, was a visitor at the Normal on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dolson and [illegible] of Gardiner were in town Friday.

John Denzlinger, Edward Elmore and Abram C. DuBois were pickerel fishing in Chodikee Lake on Wednesday.

Miss Josephine Bushel spent last week end with Miss Katherine Scanlon in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Harvey Gregory entertained a large company of friends at her home on Main street at a valentine party Saturday afternoon. There were a number of guests from out of town, including Poughkeepsie and New York. "Hearts" were played and delicious refreshments were served. Members of the Wednesday Club, wh oassisted in the serving were joined by their husbands in the evening and entertained at supper by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon, February 24, at the Normal School.

Miss Alice Kortright entertained members of the J. G. C. and their friends at her home on Eltinge avenue, Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in games and dancing. Decorations, place cards and favors were suggestive of St. Valentine. Refreshments were served and a good time reported by all.

Prof. Parrott from Geneva Experimental Station will speak in Huguenot Grange Hall, Thursday, February 26, at 1:30 p. m., on care of trees, fruit dusting and spraying and a general discussion. Everybody is welcome to attend this meeting.

Dr. B. A. Reynolds found his Airedale dog, which had been gone since February 13, near Plutarch on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of an Italian.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our appreciation to the friends who helped us through the bereavement of our husband and son. We also wish to thank the minister for his comforting work and those who sent flowers.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

THE BIG TREES

Billie Brownie had always wanted to see the big trees of California. Many had been the sights he had seen, many were the trips he had taken.

He had talked to so many creatures too and had heard their stories.

But always he had said to himself that one of these fine days he must take a trip to see the big trees of California.

"Well," said Old Mother Nature, "which of the fine days are you going to choose? People say that they will do something or other one of these fine days, and I never know what they mean.

"At least I do not see why they wait so long after saying that.

"They let one after another fine day pass them by without doing what they have said they were going to do.

"So long as they are planning to do such and such a thing one of these fine days why let so many fine days go by without starting?

"Although, of course, I suppose, they have other things to do," Mother Nature continued, "and they like to dream of pleasant times ahead quite awhile before they can make their dreams come true.

"But can't you go any time, Billie Brownie?"

"I can," Billie Brownie said, "and I would love to go as soon as I can.

"How about this very fine day?"

"Good," said Mother Nature, "and you will be able to understand the language of the trees, not only by their rings but by their tree talk."

"Good," Said Mother Nature.

"They sound as though they were in the jewelry business," laughed Billie Brownie.

So off he went and so that he could see the trees all the sooner he took his little airplane.

At last he stood in a forest of great trees.

Oh, no wonder they called them the big trees! Never had Billie Brownie seen such a forest.

Never had he seen such mighty, mighty trees. Never had he been so thrilled and so excited by the sight of trees.

There they stood, many, many, many trees, and all so magnificently large and strong and handsome.

"Oh, Trees," said Billie Brownie, "you're so beautiful! You are more beautiful than I dreamed you would be, and I always have thought you would be very beautiful.

"I have heard so much of you—but I have heard nothing to tell me half how wonderful you really are.

"You can't imagine what it means to have heard of great big, beautiful trees, and then find they are so much more beautiful than you've been told.

"Mother Nature said you would talk to me, Big Trees."

So one of the oldest and the biggest of the trees spoke to Billie Brownie:

"Yes, we are very big. There are few, if any, trees such as we are anywhere.

"The Blue Gum Trees in far-away Australia, they say, are our only rivals.

"And we're very old, hundreds and hundreds of years old. We've seen so much. We've been through so much.

"Sometimes we have been sick. Fires have given us bruises and wounds. But we act as doctors and nurses to ourselves.

"We fold some of our living tissue over the burnt and wounded part and even though it may take a long time to heal we are patient."

"I heard about your rings," Billie Brownie said.

"Oh, yes," said the Big Tree. "we have rings about our tree bodies to show how old we are. We don't add rings as some ladies might do as they get more money—we add them with our age.

"But Billie Brownie, we like to have people see us and admire us. It seems a pity, at times, that the country is so big. It makes it so hard for people in one part to see the beauties in another."

"All I say," answered Billie Brownie, "is that I hope people all get to see you, Big Trees, some time or other.

"I wouldn't have missed this for anything."

Skin Off of Letter

One day little three-year-old Eleanor's aunt received a letter. While reading it the envelope dropped to the floor. Eleanor picked it up and said gravely as she handed it to her, "Auntie, here is the skin off your letter."

We do not choose our parts in this world, and have nothing to do with the selection. Our simple duty is confined to playing them well.—Epictetus.

DELECTABLE DISHES

Delicious dishes of all kinds may be prepared in the winter, even when the fresh things are not in market. A delightful salad is the following, which can be served at any season:

Fig and Cheese Salad.—Mix to a paste any cream cheese, or cottage cheese, using one cupful; one cupful of dried figs, one-half cupful of roasted almonds, chopped, and two tablespoonfuls of orange juice. Mix and mold into balls and roll the balls in the chopped almonds. Place four or five of the balls on a bed of lettuce, garnish with sections of orange and serve with:

Honey Dressing.—Take one-half cupful of strained honey; beat slowly into three well-beaten egg yolks. Place in a double boiler and stir over the heat until the mixture begins to thicken. Remove from the heat and beat until cool. Add salt and cayenne, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, and just before serving fold in a cupful of whipped cream.

Orange Shortcake. — For dessert, when it is hard to find something appetizing, prepare a rich biscuit dough and bake it in large-sized biscuits. Split them and butter well, making a small shortcake, using oranges that have been peeled, cut into small pieces, sprinkled with sugar and allowed to stand to season for an hour or two. Heap the fruit with plenty of juice on each layer and serve it hot.

Graham Pudding.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one-half cupful of molasses, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one egg, one-half cupful of sour milk, one and one-half cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of raisins, and spices to taste. Mix well and steam four hours. Serve with an Egg Sauce.—Beat the white of an egg until stiff; add one cupful of sugar to the beaten yolk, a pinch of salt, vanilla and one-half cupful of boiling milk, then stir in the egg white and serve at once.

Prunes, figs, as well as dates, may be stuffed with nuts, fondant or a cream cheese. Served as dessert they are wholesome, easy to preapre and especially good for children.

HURLEY.

Hurley, Feb. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schleb and friend are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schieb.

Miss Sarah DeWitt and Miss Katharyn Myer, who are attending school in Brooklyn, are spending several days at their homes in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Merritt of Hacketstown, N. J., are visiting at the Merritt homestead.

Wessels Ten Eyck and friend of Brooklyn are guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Ten Eyck.

Communion service will be held in this church on Sunday morning, March 1. Preparatory service on Thursday evening at the parsonage followed by a meeting of the consistory.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeopp and family have the sympathy of the community in the loss of her mother.

On Wednesday, February 25, an all day quilting will be held in the town hall by the ladies of the Missionary Society.

Theodore Thielpape, a student at Rutgers College, while home on a short vacation, preached at Rosendale and Bloomington on Sunday last.

STONE RIDGE.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

To Mothers:* Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Beware

Anyone with a cold

Watch people with colds. Every sneeze or cough spreads infection.

If you have a cold, be careful of others. If you haven't, dodge every sneeze.

A cold is important. It means danger as well as discomfort. Half our major ills start with colds.

But a cold stops quickly if you fight it rightly from the start. The best way known is Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. A few doses check the cold.

It is so sure that druggists guarantee it. So reliable that millions now employ it. So ideal that 25 years have developed no way to improve it.

Take Hill's when the cold starts, and it ends in short order.

Big Calendar for Supreme Court

Trial Term Opens at Court House Next Monday—Calendar Contains 332 Cases—New Rule of Practice in Effect.

The calendar for the Ulster county trial term of Supreme court which convenes Monday, March 2, at 2 p. m., has been issued. Justice Wesley O. Howard will preside. There are 332 cases on the calendar, 328 being general causes and four preferred causes. A grand jury will be in attendance before which District Attorney Frederick G. Traver will bring a large number of criminal matters for investigation and consideration.

Heretofore it has been the rule for the presiding justice to call the trial cases on the calendar on the first day after the opening of the court, but under a new rule which takes effect at the March term, this will be done away with. On Friday, February 27, as per the new rule, Deputy County Clerk Walter G. Geroldsek, the clerk of the court, will be at the court room in the court house at 2 p. m., where the attorneys who have causes of action upon the calendar will listen to the call of the calendar and state what disposition shall be made of their cases.

The attorneys will announce which of their cases are ready for trial and set the day for the taking up of those cases; also whether they are inquests, announce what cases have been settled and go off the calendar and such cases they wish to go over the term. Clerk Geroldsek will then make a chart of markings for Justice Howard so that he will be able to make up a day calendar for each day of the trial term. The cases marked over the term and all new cases will make the calendar for the May term of supreme court.

The new rule is as follows:

On the Friday immediately preceding the first day of any term of the Supreme court held in the county of Ulster, the clerk of the court shall, at the court room in the county court house at two p. m. on that day, call the calendar of causes for marking; and all of the causes marked ready for trial by both parties shall constitute the causes from which the day calendar shall be made up from day to day until all of such causes have been disposed of. Such causes must be ready for trial when reached, and if not ready will be marked over the term unless adjourned by the justice holding the term upon good reason shown by affidavit to have arisen after such causes have been marked ready.

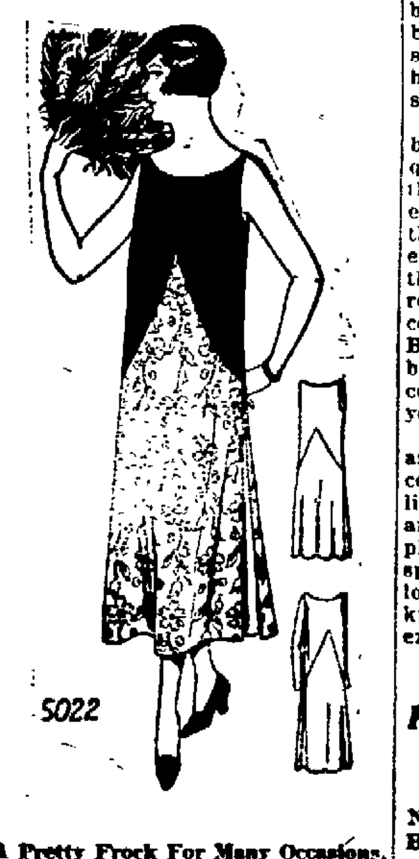
OUR DAILY PATTERN.



A Pretty Frock For Many Occasions.

5022.—Figured crepe or chiffon may be combined with satin or plain chiffon. One could also use two contrasting shades of one material. If made with long sleeves, the style is good for taffeta, satin or crepe satin.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. If made as illustrated in the large view for a 16 year size, it will require 1¼ yard of plain material and 2⅜ yards of figured material 32 inches wide. If made with long sleeves 1¾ yard of the plain material is required. If the godet is made of contrasting material it will require ½ yard cut crosswise. If made of one material and with long sleeves, the dress will require 4¼ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Began Life Work Early

Two men who have been considered the world's most famous clowns started acting at a very early age. Joseph Grimaldi, the great fun maker of England, made his first bow to an audience as the Little Clown at the age of one year and eleven months. By the time he was three years old he was a regular member of the company at Sadler's Wells theater, being cast in the arduous part of "the little monkey."

George L. Fox, the Grimaldi of America, and the man who made "Humpty Dumpty" famous, was of a theatrical family and made his first appearance on the stage when he was five years old.—Mentor Magazine.

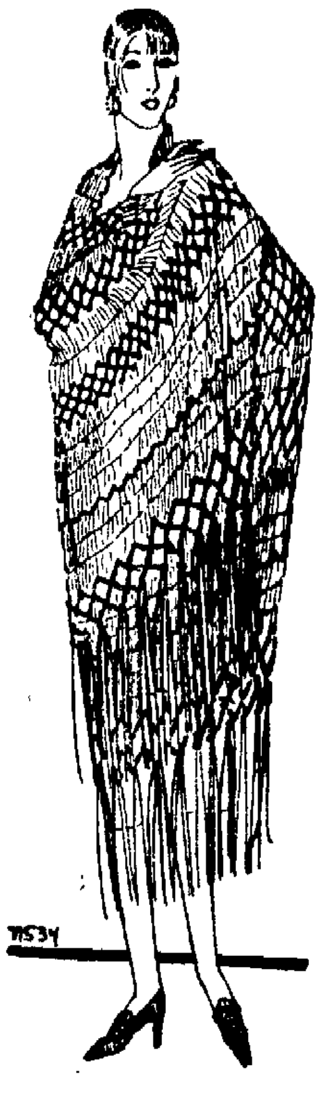
THE RENAISSANCE OF THE SHAWL.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The shawl has proved its worth as a convenient wrap for those who are wintering south. It is confined, however, to evening wear, scarfs being the daytime substitute.

Among the newer shawls are those from Italy, which are deeply fringed, not from a straight edge, but from one which is cut in battlements. From these squares the fringe hangs, but it is so arranged that the lower edge is even and not uneven, as one might infer.

These shawls are made of very heavy crepe, and embroidered in floral sprays rather widely spaced, and they in no way resemble Spanish embroidery, excepting that usually they are colored.



Crepe shawls and scarfs, too, which are embroidered in wool, are another item of interest, and there are, of course, the all wool shawls with a solid center of white or color and woven borders in floral design. Distinctly shawls are in—as the expression goes—but among some it is believed that the Spanish manton has been rather overdone. A Spanish shawl, like any other work of art, is, however, always a cherished possession.

Shawls have been made into coats before today. The Paisley shawl had quite a revival as a coat, but lacked the smartness of Chinese and Spanish embroidered crepe shawls, or of those Czecho-Chinese, and Spanish embroidered crepe shawls, or of those Czecho Slovakia shawls which really make stunning three-quarter coats. One worn recently at Palm Beach had a black center and was brightly flowered with yellow and cerise roses. The lining was a bright yellow crepe.

While embroidered coats are not as smart as in former seasons, such coats as are made from shawls are liked, and several interesting printed and woven coats are worn. Heavy plaid gingham is not despised for a sports coat and, of course, since Callot turned some of her attention to knitted coats, they are regarded as exceedingly chic.

Prisoner's Fate Left to Trial by Ordeal

As recently as the beginning of the Nineteenth century the populace of Hela, near Dantzig, twice plunged into the sea an old woman reputed to be a sorceress, who, on persistently rising to the surface, was pronounced guilty and beaten to death.

Grotius mentions many instances of water ordeal in Bithynia, Sardinia, and other countries, and it was in use in Iceland from a very early period.

In the primitive jurisprudence of Russia, ordeal by boiling water was enjoined in cases of minor importance. In the Eleventh century we find burning iron ordered "where the matter at stake amounted to more than half a grivna of gold."

A curious survival of ordeal superstition prevailed till quite recently in southern Russia. When a theft was committed in a household the servants were summoned together and a sorceress was sent for. Should no confession be made by the guilty party, the sorceress rolled up as many little balls of bread as there were suspected persons present. She then took one of these balls and, addressing the nearest servant, used this formula: "If you have committed the theft the ball will sink to the bottom of the vase, but if you are innocent it will float on the water."

The accuracy of this trial, however, was seldom tested. The guilty person usually confessed before his turn arrived for the ordeal.

Interesting Sight

"What is happening over there on the opposite side of the street?" asked a recently arrived guest. "One man is jumping up and down, waving his arms and yelling like a lunatic, while another man is regarding him with what appears to be silent contempt."

"Aw, one of 'em is old Sam Swiggs, who drinks such infernal bone-dry licker as we get here, and now is drunk and entertaining the jim-jams. The other feller is deaf-and-dumb and imagines Sam is trying to explain these 'ere crossword puzzles to him," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern.—Kansas City Star.

WOMEN EVERYWHERE say:

"Chipso is the greatest labor-saver I have ever found"

Grocers tell us that, in all their retail experience, they have never known a product to sell as fast as Chipso.

There must be a real reason for such a phenomenal success.

There is not only one, but there are a dozen. Let Chipso users tell them in their own words.

A Louisville woman saves 2 hours every washday

This woman does the washing for six people every week. Our representative took down her comments word for word:

"I got a package of Chipso the other day, and tried it on my washing. Believe me, it was a big washing, too. It's wonderful: that washing would have taken me four hours normally, but I had it hanging up to dry in about two hours, and my clothes and bed-linens were as white as snow and looked like new. Besides, I wasn't worn out as I usually am on washday.

"Chipso is the most marvelous thing in the way of soap I have ever tried, and I think I've tried them all. You can count on me buying Chipso from now on."

This Boston housewife uses Chipso for everything

She was talking with a grocer. This is what she said:

"I'm glad you sell Chipso. I've become tired of feeling that I must buy a soap of some form for washing dishes, another for the washing machine, another for this and another for that. Do you know that Chipso will do wonderfully for all purposes where a household soap is needed? You can't sell me anything at twice the price that will do half as well."

You can buy Chipso at any good grocery. Two sizes, both large. Packed in blue and orange boxes. Try it today.

The Fastest 1000 Miles Ever Made on Wheels!

Stock Chandler Does Distance in 689 minutes, Averaging 86.96 Miles per Hour—a New World's Record

ON February 4th, at Culver City, Cal., a stock Chandler sped 1,000 miles in the elapsed time of 689 minutes, 54 seconds.

According to all available records, this stands as the fastest thousand miles ever made by any automobile—including racing cars.

From start to finish, there were no tire changes nor mechanical adjustments—the only stops being for fuel and oil replenishments.

At the end of its heroic exhibition, the car was turned over to Harry Miller, the noted racing car builder. He has certified it as being a stock model in every respect except for its higher gear ratio.

This electrifying feat—unequalled in all automobile history—represents the culmination of Chandler's notable series of performance victories. Built to master a mountain, the Pikes Peak Motor has now shown itself a master in every phase of performance.

You may never subject your Chandler to the gruelling, searching, heart-breaking test of answering the wide open throttle from dawn to dusk at such a speed.

But any car that can survive such a terrific test must be a marvel of engineering and construction—must carry an assurance of long life and low maintenance costs along with its dominant performance!

DURING THE SEASON OF GREATEST DANGER

Father John's Medicine Builds Energy To Resist Colds.

This is the season when it is most difficult for your system to throw off cold and grip germs, because it is common for people to be in a run-down condition at this time. Body energy is usually at low ebb, and people catch cold easily.

You can build strength to keep your energy high so that you are able to throw off colds by taking a pure food tonic such as Father John's Medicine. For over 69 years it has been the standby in thousands of homes as the best remedy for coughs and colds. No alcohol or narcotics. Try it today.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

POST FAMED IN U. S. HISTORY

Governors Island Intimately Associated With Record of Men and Events.

New York.—When Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall assumed command of the Second corps area recently, succeeding Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, and set up his headquarters at Governors Island he took over one of the most historic posts in the United States, one that has associated with it the names of America's famous generals, past and present.

Generals Hancock, Schofield, Howard, Miles, Merritt, Chaffee, Corbin, Grant, Wood, Bliss and Barry, all of whom have made history in this country, have at one time or another lived in the old colonial house on Governors Island that is the home of the commanding general of the Department of the East. Though Governors Island has long since outlived its usefulness as a part of the defenses of New York city, two important events have occurred within recent years that emphasize its value.

The first blow struck by American troops when the United States entered the World war was launched from Governors Island when at 3:30 a. m. on Good Friday, April 6, 1917, less than half an hour after congress declared that a state of war existed between the United States and the Imperial German government, a battalion of the One Hundred and Twenty-second infantry embarked on boats of the revenue service and seized all the German ships and their crews in the har' or.

The other event in which troops from Governors Island participated was one of vital interest to New York city, and, in fact, to the whole country. The Wall street explosion occurred about noon on September 16, 1920, and ten minutes later the commanding general at Governors Island received a telephone message at his headquarters from the assistant secretary of the treasury asking for troops to protect government property at the sub-treasury and other places.

Troops Soon Appeared.

In 20 minutes' time the troops were under arms and they arrived at the sub-treasury in a little over half an hour from the time the call for help was sent in. The effect of the soldiers upon the enormous throng that had been attracted to the financial district by the explosion was of vital importance, and many prominent bankers and financiers afterward said that scenes of violence and panic were averted thereby.

From the dim past of Indian occupation down through the Dutch period of Van Twiller and Peter Stuyvesant and the days of the English governors, right up to the present time, Governors Island has had an unbroken history of official government occupation.

The Indian name for Governors Island was "Pagganck," referring to the abundance of nut trees with which it was clothed. The Dutch translated it to "Nutten" and on June 16, 1637, the director and council of New Netherlands, residing on the Island of Manhatas, in the Fort Amsterdam—Bowling Green—published the order according to which two Indians of the Island of Pagganck did "transport, cede, give over and convey to the behoof of Wouter Van Twiller, director of New Netherlands, this island in consideration of certain 'parcels of goods.'"

In 1698 the island was set aside by the assembly as part of the "Denizen of His Majestie's Fort at New York for the benefit of His Majestie's Governors" and so it became known as Governors Island. The English held Governors Island until the evacuation in 1783, and during the period the various governors held the island as a perquisite of office.

The records show that Sir William Peperill's regiment was on the island in 1755, and later the Twenty-second, Forty-fourth and the Royal American regiments saw service there. The last named regiment afterward became and is still known as the King's Royal Rifle corps, of which King George V of England is the honorary colonel. In January, 1921, Field Marshal Lord Grenfell, colonel in chief of the King's Royal Rifles or the K. R. R. as they are commonly known, presented in the names of the officers and men of the regiment, the ancient regimental colors of the regiment. The flag was installed with imposing ceremonies in the post chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion, where it now hangs on the right of the line of historic American battle flags.

A Memento of Joint Action.

In his letter of presentation Lord Grenfell described the battle flag as "a memento of the fact that the Royal American regiment and the regiments of New York fought shoulder to shoulder not only during the many years of warfare which ended in the conquest of New France and the subjection of Indian tribes bordering on the Great Lakes, but also, after the lapse of a century and a half, against a common enemy in a more terrible European conflict."

With the evacuation of the British forces in 1783 the American army took possession of the island and elaborated the defenses until the existing Fort Jay was finished in 1801. To this day it remains a fine example of medieval fortification, with moat, sallyport, drawbridge and postern gate, mounted with 100 guns. The name was changed to Fort Columbus and the fort was entirely completed in its present form five years afterward. The name Fort Jay was restored by direction of Secretary of War Elihu Root on January [illegible], [illegible]. Many old New Yorkers, however, still recall and use the name Fort Columbus, which it bore for nearly a century.

Part of Governors Island was ceded to the United States by the legislature of New York state on February 15, [illegible]. The area ceded was [illegible] acres. This was found inadequate for the military needs of the department headquarters and the military garrison, and in 1900 a further cession of 103 acres was made by the legislature.

Coast to Coast Record BROKEN!

Cannon Ball Baker Driving a Rickenbacker Six Sets New Motor Record and Beats Time Fastest Trains Across Continent By 15 Hrs. 2 Min.

Beats Former Auto Record By 30 Hrs. 10 Min.

Consider what this means!

Starting from the Atlantic Coast in the worst month in the year, and just after the worst snow and sleet storm of the season;—first day between canyons cut through snow banks—then ice-sheeted roads for hundreds of miles;—

Wallowing through Nebraska gumbo in February;—

Slithering over the greasy red clay of New Mexico and the shifting sands of the Arizona Desert;—

Over mountains that are snow capped even in summer;—

Through passes almost impassable;—

An automobile makes this trip—hours faster than the three fastest railroad trains that cross the continent!

Seventeen locomotives—each costing tens of thousands of dollars—make it in relays.

Yet this Rickenbacker Six—selling at $1,395—made the entire trip, a total of 3106.5 miles in 71 hours 33 minutes—actual driving time.

Driven by one man—a very hercules in strength, else he could not have withstood the terrific strain of a long drive—all the way.

No relief for car or man.

Here was a feat!

Average for entire distance was 43.4 miles per hour!

Did it in the worst season—worst weather—worst roads—of the year, while former aspirants carefully chose their time.

There's stamina for you!

There's speed—long sustained speed—for you!

There's power plus—for this car knew no grades nor mountains!

At one stage "Cannon Ball Baker" drove 75 miles in low and second gears for hour after hour—at 45 miles per hour in second.

At that speed, in "second", the motor was turning over 4,000 revolutions per minute.

There's a lubricating system for you!

Try that feat with any other car.

Rickenbacker "Six" averaged 46.7 miles per hour from New York to Indianapolis and 57.6 from there to St. Louis, thus beating "St. Louisian" crack Pennsylvania Flyer by over two hours.

To do that, Baker had to go over 70 whenever he could see far enough ahead.

He says Rickenbacker mechanical 4-wheel brakes did it—for he could drive faster, with safety, than ever before on country roads.

Baker insists that no driver—no car—can hope to equal this record with any other than Rickenbacker 4-wheel brakes, and a motor with 7-bearing crankshaft properly lubricated.

On its flight from Atlantic to Pacific this Rickenbacker Six clipped one inter-city record after another—all of them!

Beat running time three fastest trains—Pennsylvania, New York to St. Louis—Missouri Pacific, St. Louis to Kansas City—Santa Fe, Kansas City to Los Angeles—by 15 hours 2 minutes. Train time is 86 hours 35 minutes—Rickenbacker Six actual running time, 71 hours 33 minutes.

If there has been any doubt in your mind that this New Rickenbacker Six is the greatest car in the world, here is proof.

And any Rickenbacker Six will duplicate this performance—for this was a stock car. We will deliver you an exact duplicate for $1,395 f. o. b. factory.

Razed Structures Expose Ancient London Houses

London.—So many buildings are being torn down in London nowadays to make way for modern structures that various sections of the old city are taking on the bustling appearance of a new and rapidly growing American town. Also, the demolitions often give passersby unexpected glimpses of ancient houses hitherto hidden from view.

One gets occasional glimpses of famous old landmarks that never before, at least in living memory, have been fully exposed to public view. One of these is the Old Savoy chapel, which, with the trees in its little churchyard, can now be seen from the top of a bus in the Strand.

Another is in Bishopsgate, where quaint little St. Ethelburga, one of the oldest and smallest churches in London, fronted with two ancient and tiny shops, is now suddenly revealed by the pulling down of buildings at its side. It was here that Henry Hudson and his companions came before they sailed from the Thames on their last voyage to the frozen north.

Forgotten River, Now Sewer, Beneath London

London.—An almost forgotten stream, the River Walbrook, flowing through the city of London, is giving the builders of the new Bank of England something to think about.

It is thirty feet or so below the surface, and as long ago as 1396, according to historians, it was vaulted over with houses above it.

In the days of William the Conqueror it was described as "a brook of sweet water," but has since developed into something of a sewer. Its course is through the wall of London to Moorgate eastward, then in the direction of the Mansion house, and it is believed that when the excavations are made for the new Bank of England engineers will have some trouble.

Although so far underground, the stream is still tidal. The high tide in the Thames presses water up along the beds of shingle as far up as Cheapside, if not actually under the bank itself.

Cuban Medical Congress Plans Health Campaign

Havana.—Legislation designed to improve working and living conditions of women and children in industry, and of men laboring in the cane fields and sugar mills, was recommended in a series of fifty-eight resolutions adopted by the Cuban national medical congress which recently closed its sixth annual session here.

The congress especially would have hours of working women and children regulated, and favors a law requiring working women to cease work for four weeks before and after childbirth.

The congress also went on record as favoring an effective law against importation of narcotics, for stricter legislation against carrying firearms, for standardizing medical drugs and for protection of the meat and milk supplies of the public, and many other measures to improve living conditions.

7,028 Characters on Japanese Typewriter

Seattle, Wash.—Japanese typewriters here have only one key, but print 7,028 characters. The operator often writes sixty words a minute, which is doubly faster than is possible when printing the characters by hand. The machine prints from the bottom of the page to the top and from the right-hand side to the left.

In addition to the Japanese characters the quaint typewriter has the English alphabet tucked away in a corner. The typing characters are single bits of steel adjusted in a movable tray so as to be pushed into contact with a ribbon above the paper placed in readiness for the writing.

New McClintock Death Probe On

A new investigation into the death of William McClintock, millionaire Chicago orphan, who left the major portion of his estate to his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Shepherd, has been begun in the Windy City, and the body of Dr. Oscar Olson, a long-time friend of the McClintock family, has been ordered exhumed. The investigation is being pushed by Judge Harry Olson, Dr. Olson's brother. Dr. Olson is declared to have died after eating fruit given him by Mr. Shepherd. Letters from Mr. Shepherd to Miss Estelle Gebling, young McClintock's nurse, have figured in the case. One of the principal witnesses was Miss Isabelle Pope, young McClintock's sweetheart, who had a marriage license and was prepared to wed him on his death bed, but the ceremony was prevented by his death.

Asphalt Street Maintenance Cost

Figures of Other Cities Interesting to Kingstonians in View of Policy Heretofore Inaugurated Here to Use Asphalt in Street Improvement.

With the exception of Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C., the asphalt pavement of which has given service for 48 years, Omaha, it is believed, has established a record for durability in street construction. A recent inspection of Omaha asphalt black base pavements laid in 1889 to 1893 showed them to be in good condition and still giving excellent service.

The city has a total of 102,178 square yards of 4½-inch black base pavements with a 1½-inch sheet asphalt top of which 3,003 square yards were laid in 1899, 77,426 square yards in 1890, 12,415 square yards in 1891 and 9,334 square yards in 1893. The pavements, therefore, are all from 31 to 35 years old. In spite of their age it has been necessary only to resurface two per cent of the total yardage originally laid, or 2,134 square yards, all of which was laid in 1905 on pavements constructed in 1891.

One of the reasons advanced for the popularity of asphalt street pavements—as evidenced by the fact that 53.9 per cent of all street paving of the types higher than waterbound macadam is the 290 leading cities of the country is of asphalt—is that asphalt pavements require only a very low cost for maintenance.

Hartford's Record.

It is rare that maintenance figures on pavements are so recorded that it is possible, after a lapse of years, to arrive at the cost of maintaining the surface. The engineering department, city of Hartford, Conn., however, has systematically recorded costs of maintenance on its asphalt pavements from the time of the expiration of the guarantee period down to date. Some of these pavements are 29 years old. A recent inspection found them in excellent condition.

For instance, Ford street, which was paved with asphalt in 1908 and which is traversed by street car tracks with the asphalt paving laid up to the rails, has cost the city for maintenance only an average of $0.016 (1 3-5 cents) per square yard per year for the past sixteen years. Notwithstanding its long service this pavement is still in excellent condition.

City Hall Square, at Main and Asylum streets, Hartford, was paved with asphalt in 1896, and after twenty-eight years of service the pavement is still in good condition despite the fact that it is traversed by car tracks and is also subjected to heavy motor vehicle traffic.

Twenty-six years ago Anne street, between Asylum and Allen streets, in Hartford was paved with asphalt. The original pavement is still giving excellent service and has been maintained at an average cost of $0.014 (1 3-8 cents) per square yard per year.

In 1903, Hartford laid an asphalt pavement on Pearl street, the surface as in the case of Ford street, being carried right up to the rails of two lines of car tracks. For twenty-one years this street has been carrying traffic of all kinds at an average cost for maintenance of only $0.02 (2 cents) per square yard per year. It is also still in perfect condition.

Washington's Cost.

The streets and avenues of Washington, D. C., are justly regarded as the best paved of any of the great world capitals but it will be a surprise to the average American to learn that Washington's beautiful asphalt pavements are maintained at a yearly cost much less than that of the average trunk line country highway. The report of the engineer commissioner for the District of Columbia covering 1923 showed the average cost of maintaining asphalt pavements that year was 2.22 cents or at the rate of $234.43 per mile of 18 feet roadway. This of itself is a good showing but it becomes striking in the light of the commissioner's comment. He said: "In connection with these costs of annual repair it should be considered that some of the streets approximate an age of 40 years and that the average age of those we have resurfaced in recent past years exceeds 25 years."

The best pavements laid in Washington average at present prices only about $3 to $3.25 per square yard for new construction of base and top or at the rate of $32,000 to $35,000 per mile, a rate actually lower than the average first cost of many roads on state highway routes.

Costs in Massachusetts.

Massachusetts was the first state in the union to provide for state highways, its highway department was established in 1892—more than thirty years ago. The Massachusetts department, therefore, is better qualified, perhaps than any other in the country to give detailed information on the cost of state road maintenance.

Massachusetts has a large mileage of asphalt pavements that have seen long periods of service. The impressive showing made by the state of only 1.17 cents per square yard for maintaining 1,742,165 square yards of asphaltic concrete pavements during 1922 is all the more remarkable when the many years of service rendered by these pavements are considered. On the basis of a roadway eighteen feet wide the above maintenance cost is equivalent to only $124 per mile.

On the asphalt macadam pavements in Massachusetts pavements which have a longer average age than those of the asphaltic concrete and which are usually of lighter construction—the average cost for the maintenance of 3,679,610 square yards was only 2.85 cents per square yard or an average, for an eighteen foot road, of $261 per mile.

Ellenville, Feb. 25.—The Misses Mabel Wilklow and Gladys Decker of the Home National Bank, spent the week-end and the holiday at Atlantic City.

Miss Florence White of New York city, spent Washington's birthday with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Frear.

H. J. Arnold of Brooklyn, spent the holiday at the home of Otis Johnson.

Elizabeth Frear, W. Shep, and Nellie Virginia Sawyer, Queen, Eva Van Kirk and Cora Sawyer went to Kingston Thursday night for a ceremonial of the White Shrine of Jerusalem. The officers attended a banquet at the Hotel Stuyvesant given in honor of the D. D., who officially visited the Judea Shrine.

B. H. Terwilliger and C. A. Hoornbeek have returned from their trip to Florida.

Mrs. A. V. Porter of Passaic Park, N. J., came up to Middletown recently for treatment for the eyes following which she came to Ellenville and spent several days with her sister, Mrs. Edgar S. Terwilliger.

Abram Moore of Schenectady, N. Y., spent Sunday and Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Moore at Briggs Street.

Eugene F. Thornton of Saugerties, has been in Ellenville on business for several days.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold a supper in the church parlors on Tuesday evening, March 3rd, from 5 to 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Doyle and Mrs. Doyle's mother, Mrs. J. F. Winslow, left on Thursday to spend a month or so with relatives in Stamford, Conn. Mrs. Winslow will visit first at the home of her brother, George Rogers, in Whitestone, L. I., Mr. Rogers being in very poor health.

E. C. Hocmer, of the Ellenville Schools, is planning to conduct his 14th Washington excursion in connection with the regular O. & W. excursion, which starts April 11.

Mayor H. W. Coons and Mrs. Coons, accompanied by former Supervisor W. Kelly Shook, motored to Poughkeepsie on Tuesday last.

Clarence Lepke of New York spent Sunday and Washington's Birthday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lepke, at Ulster Heights.

The Wawarsing Masonic Club got off to a good start Wednesday evening when eight candidates were initiated. The new equipment for the conferring of the degree work did all that was expected of it, and all enjoyed a lively time. The club now consists of twenty-four members and a number on the waiting list. At the conclusion of the meeting the club members adjourned to the Atkins restaurant and satisfied the appetite, which the candidates especially had worked up. The next meeting of the club will be on Wednesday evening, February 25, following the regular meeting of Wawarsing Lodge, when more members will be initiated.

The Reo speed wagon of Isidore Miller and the car of Louis Tanenbaum collided on the Greenfield road, this side of the Hasbrouck bridge, Wednesday afternoon, with the result that the Marshall-Jansen Co. wrecking car was called.

Daniel Albert and a friend were home over the holiday.

Pioneer Engine Co. is preparing for an observance of the 65th anniversary of the organization of the company on Monday evening, March 16. There will be an entertainment, games and dancing and a general good time.

Miss Gwendolyn Eckert of New York city spent the week end at her home here.

Lieut. Elmer E. Count, who has for some time been stationed at Fort Hancock, N. J., has been transferred to Fort Kamehameho, Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting of the Ellenville W. C. T. U., held in Hunt Memorial, Mrs. Ter Bush, presiding. The meeting was opened with singing "America" and Scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. C. A. Dann. Three new members were reported and the treasurer's report was encouraging. It was decided to install lights in front of the hall, which will be an improvement. A committee will arrange for an evening of games in the near future. Following the business a Frances Willard memorial program was given under the direction of Mrs. Potter: Reading, by Miss Norton; address at the unveiling of the bust of Frances Willard in the Hall of Fame, by Miss Annie Gordon; reading, Mrs. Deyo W. Johnson; singing; reading of Miss Willard's Challenge to Young Women, by Mrs. R. T. Cookingham; poem, "Frances Willard," read by Mrs. Frank J. Potter (closed with singing).

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, of the U. S. Senate, has been directed to ask Secretary of State Hughes for facts regarding charges that the State Department has "gagged" Count Michael Karolyi, former President of the Republic of Hungary, who came to America to be at the bedside of his sick wife. Marjorie Daw, Los Angeles film star, declares she will file a divorce suit immediately against Eddie Sutherland, director, charging incompatibility. Lord Rothermere, owner of a chain of British papers, has posted $50,000 that he can answer correctly seventy-five per cent of seven problems in arithmetic and eighteen questions of general knowledge in reply to a challenge by George Cove, former Laborite member of Parliament and former president of the National Teachers' Union, who criticised a test Rothermere gave his junior clerks. Should Rothermere lose, the money will go to charity. The Rev. Stuart Lawrence Tyson, noted New York clergyman and America's foremost foe of divorce, who said once in the pulpit that "Christ's idea of marriage was one man for one woman until death broke the bond of matrimony," has filed suit in Trenton for divorce, charging extreme cruelty. He has written books against divorce.

WOMEN ON NEW "JITNEY" BUSSES IN TOKYO

Women are acting as conductresses aboard the new "jitney" busses in Tokyo, as witness the photograph showing one of the trim little Nipponese at her post. Motor busses are becoming increasingly popular in Japan, and girls are being employed as "nickel nursers" for the cars. Hundreds of Japanese girls have already started on this new vocation for the Orient.

GASOLINE TAXES AND FEES SMALL

Receipts Are Largely Devoted to Road Construction and Maintenance.

The average license fee per mile of motorists in this country is one-fifth of a cent, and the gasoline taxes paid amounts to one twenty-fifth of a cent, or an average for both of one-quarter of a cent per mile, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. That is what the fees paid in a year amount to when divided by 6,000, which is believed to be the average motorist's annual mileage.

Devoted to Roads.

The motorist or truck operator is assured of a good return from the taxes he pays, since the receipts are very largely devoted to road construction and maintenance. In 1923, 81 per cent of the motor vehicle license revenues and 50 per cent of the gasoline taxes were turned over to the state highway departments for expenditure under their supervision, and a considerable portion of the remainder was expended by the counties for road purposes.

Various Rates.

Consideration of the gasoline tax is of special interest to the motor vehicle operator. Thirty-five states now have this form of tax, the rates ranging from 1 to 3 cents, with the exception of one state, which has a 4-cent tax. A 1-cent gasoline tax increases the cost of operating the average vehicle by less than a tenth of a cent per mile. On a trip from Washington to Philadelphia the tax would amount to 10 cents. The trip over the Lincoln Highway from New York to San Francisco would be taxed $2.50. It is interesting to compare these rates with the toll charges which motorists formerly had to pay on toll roads. On six different turnpikes in Virginia and Maryland tolls amounting to $5.05 were charged for a total of 187 miles, which is equivalent to 2.7 cents a mile. If a state attempted to charge this same rate for the use of the public highways by automobiles, it would have to establish a gasoline tax of 36 cents per gallon.

Suggestions to Follow When Accidents Occur

Everybody with a grain of sense seems to know what to do in the case of fire, but there are still no fixed rules for behavior when cars or pedestrians collide, and many are of the opinion that lives could be saved through more definite procedure following the accident. Several of the major suggestions selected from various sources are as follows:

Never argue over the matter of responsibility for the accident when there are more important things to be considered. In the calm light of afterthought any accident or collision looks different to the participants.

Be familiar with the location of local hospitals and their emergency entrance.

First move your car over to the curb, where it will be out of the way. If there are other cars passing ask some one to take you and the injured one to the hospital.

In such a predicament you are in no condition to drive. You might easily have a second collision on the way.

Co-operate to the fullest extent. It is a strong point in your favor.

Be sure to report the matter to the police immediately upon looking after the victim.

Act, don't talk.

The police will get names of eyewitnesses. The driver who gives too much attention to getting witnesses in his favor is suspected of trying to frame an alibi to cover his carelessness.

Winter Driving Hints

Slush plus a surfaced road form a super-skiddish combination. Keep your car well under control so that you will not have to depend on your skid chains.

It is almost impossible to "Listen" at a grade crossing when riding in a closed car with the windows shut. Therefore, your eyes must do double duty. See that the tracks are clear in both directions before you attempt to cross.

Trains and trolley cars are just as deadly in winter as in summer. Failure to take every precaution at the grade crossing may be punishable by death.

Winter nights fall early and necessitate more driving after dark. Keep a couple of extra bulbs on hand in case of a burnout. Adjust your lights so they won't blind the other fellow.

Pedestrians on the highway at night are likely to be heavily muffled in dark overcoats, making it harder for them to hear you and for you to see them. Watch out!

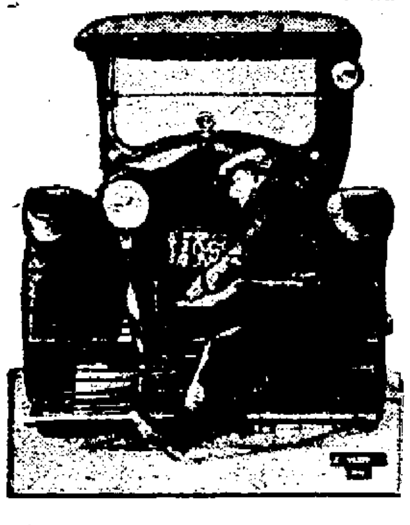
A Connecticut judge has ruled that failure to see a person does not relieve you of the responsibility of his death or injury. If snow, fog or glare from an approaching automobile makes it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead, reduce your speed.

Schools are open. The warning signs which did not apply during vacation months now should be carefully regarded.

Rubber tires will not hold on hard-packed snow, ice or slush-covered pavements. Chains in the tool box will not save you after the car has begun to skid.

New Device Picks Up Man While Speeding Rapidly

If the modern auto or truck hits you, don't worry. Equipped with the device shown in the illustration you are simply given a free ride. This man came from behind another car, was struck but not even scratched. The demonstration was given recently in Washington.



Picks Him Up at 25 Miles an Hour.

Difference Apparent in Various Makes of Autos

Whoever started the story that one car is as good as another and that there isn't much difference in the basic ideas of automobile design ought to get the prize for making the worst guess. Get behind the wheel of a half-dozen cars and the results will surprise you. In some respects some cars are altogether different from others, and you'll be amazed to see what a mistake you've made in supposing that when John Jones shifted gears he was handling the same sort of clutch and transmission as you are accustomed to. There are a lot of sales points, to be sure. But it will pay you to investigate, even if it merely serves to convince you that the automobile is going right ahead getting better every day.

Highly Prized Bible

A very valuable book is a Hebrew Bible in the Vatican library. In 1512 the Hebrews tried to buy it of Pope Julius II for its weight in gold. It is so large and heavy that two men can hardly lift it, and it would have brought $100,000.

Learning From Experience

If experience were a book and its lessons were so exactly indexed that immediate reference might be had, it would be used only by those who have ambition to steer their course safely past all dangers that threaten their success in life.—Grit.

Horticultural News

SPRING PLOWING IS AID TO CLOVER CROP

Like so many other farm operations, there is no "best" time to sow the cover crop in the orchard. The time will depend upon the kind of fruit, the season, the soil, and the load of fruit the trees are carrying, the orchardists at Cornell college declare.

The cover crop for the peach orchard is usually sown from two to three weeks later than in the apple orchard. Peach trees grow somewhat later in the fall than the apple. They are usually set on lighter types of soil and require large amounts of moisture in maturing crops of fruit. It seems advisable, then, to delay planting a cover crop in the peach orchard in New York state until the first spring and summer. On a season when the orchard is producing a very heavy crop of fruit, or when the crop is likely to suffer from lack of sufficient moisture, cultivation might well be continued until the middle or latter part of August before sowing the crop.

The cover crop in the apple orchard should be sown during July, preferably the early part. Sown at this time, soil conditions are usually more favorable for a good germination of the seed than when sown late. A cover crop put in during July should make much more growth by fall and add much more to the humus supply of the soil, than when sown a month later.

Either fall or very early spring plowing of the orchard is doubtless a better practice than late spring plowing. Early spring plowing or cultivation makes conditions favorable for nitrification in the soil, and this is essential in the production of a large healthy leaf surface, which is all-important in the growth of the tree and in the production of fruit.

It seems advisable, then, to plant the cover crop in time for it to make a good quantity of vegetable growth to be plowed under during late fall or early spring, rather than to plant it later and depend on its growth for a month or six weeks in the spring to maintain the humus supply.

No one cover crop can be recommended for all conditions. For orchards in need of nitrogen, the legumes are probably best, and vetch, peas or one of the clovers are desirable. Rye, buckwheat and rape are good non-leguminous crops. Rape may be used to advantage on heavy soils. Combinations of any of the above may often be used to advantage.

It may not be necessary to sow any crop provided one is reasonably sure of a satisfactory growth of weeds in the orchard. Weeds will spread to other parts of the farm, and this should be considered in using them as a cover crop.

Avoid All Acute Angle Crotches in Pruning Job

Among the details of orchard pruning work that should be constantly in the mind of the pruner is the method of avoiding acute angle crotches. When two branches start out from a common origin and are of about equal strength, if they are allowed to grow normally, a weak crotch usually results. If, however, following their first year's growth one of them is headed back to one-half that of the other, the longer one will become the leader and the one heavily headed back will become a side branch and will firmly unite to the heavily growing one. Care in treating such crotches in this way while the trees are young will result in a tree capable of holding up a heavy crop of fruit when bearing time is reached.

Control Peach Leaf Curl

Peach leaf-curl, a disease which occurs in the spring and is manifested by swollen and distorted leaves and twigs, with sometimes quite serious damage to the trees, can be controlled by adding bordeaux mixture, 4-4-50 strength, to the oil-emulsion spray. The main point to be remembered concerning the control of this disease is that the spray must be applied before the buds begin to swell or no control will be obtained.

Horticulture Hints

If farmers would market only first-class fruit, the corner fruit stand would have to sell that kind.

• • •

Your trees cannot function properly without a good supply of moisture in the soil in which they are growing.

• • •

All mummified fruits are sources of infections that should never be allowed to remain on the trees or on the ground beneath the trees.

• • •

Producing high-quality fruit is hard enough without wasting time on varieties that can only be poor even when at their best.

• • •

Young fruit trees are frequently killed by gophers gnawing the roots. Prevention costs but little. Damage can be considerable.

• • •

Pruning does not invigorate a tree, but tends to dwarf it. The peach tree is no exception to this rule. The more a tree is pruned, especially a young tree, the more it needs pruning.

To Clean Nickel Faucets

Nickel faucets can be made to look like new if polished with an old woolen cloth which has been dipped first in turpentine and then in whiting. Apply with a fair amount of elbow grease and the faucets will look like silver.

King Shows Improvement

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 25.—King George was so much improved today that his physicians announced that he might be able to leave his room in Buckingham Palace within a few days.

The physicians are continuing their daily visits.

Orders have been issued for royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, to be ready by March 9 for the cruise ordered by His Majesty's physicians.

Just how long the king will remain in southern European waters is uncertain, but it is believed his physicians will not permit his return until the bronchial affliction from which he is suffering has disappeared.

The royal yacht has a wireless sending aparatus with a radius of a thousand miles. It can receive almost from any distance. By this means the king will be able to keep constantly in touch with his empire chiefs.

Queen Mary has cancelled her April engagements because she will be travelling with the king.

N.Y.-London By Telephone

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rugby, England, Feb. 25.—Telephone calls between London and New York may be a reality within a year.

Clear two way speech has been accomplished by the government experimental station here, using a 200 kilowatt plant, and post office engineers announced today they were sure that within a year London subscribers would be able to put through telephone calls to New York.

By the use of the thermonic valve it has been possible, they said, to overcome any atmospheric disturbances. They believe it will take no longer than five minutes to complete the system is perfected.

Club Dance Ends In Free-for-All

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25.—Two men were in a serious condition today and many others believed to be injured following a riot at a dance given by the Oberdam Club, a political society in the Fourteenth Regiment Armory in Brooklyn, which wound up in a free for all fight among the 1,500 dancers.

Police reserves were called.

Michael Tierney, 28, and Joseph Doyle, 21, both of Brooklyn, were found to be stabbed. Doyle's condition is critical.

Review Board for Workmen's Cases

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Creation of a board of review to handle workmen's compensation cases exclusively, and a council of industrial standards and appeals within the department of labor, were recommended by the Whitely legislative committee in a report submitted today to the Legislature.

The Whitely committee was created under a resolution sponsored by Senator Knight, Republican leader of the upper house, and Assemblyman Miller, chairman of the labor and industries committee of the Assembly, to investigate delays in the payment of workmen's compensation cases.

Three additional attorney generals to hear compensation claims, and the assignment of eleven additional stenographers to the hearing officials, also were recommended.

Other recommendations include:

"That section 23 of the workmen's compensation law be amended to provide that an appeal of the board of review shall suspend the provision of the law requiring an appeal to be taken within thirty days.

"That such increase in personnel as may be necessary be made in the bureau of statistics to furnish complete statistics in relation to workmen's compensation claims and payments, but not to cost more than $20,000 annually.

"That section 20 of the workmen's compensation law be amended to provide that all awards of the board shall draw interest beginning thirty days from the date of such award."

In 1916-17 the awards in compensation cases totalled $7,517,016, while in 1923-24 the total was $22,731,484.

The investigation was urged by Governor Smith in his annual message.

The senate today passed the Whitley bill providing for an emergency appropriation of $81,000 to take care of new compensation cases which have resulted from the law of last year reducing the non-compensated waiting period from fourteen to seven days.

Society Notes

Barkley-Munson.

On Sunday afternoon, at the Reformed Church parsonage, Port Ewen the Rev. M. F. Luther united in marriage W. H. Barkley of Dumont, N. J. and Miss Hasel Munson of Port Ewen.

Cooper-Harrison.

Elisha Cooper and Effy Harrison, both of Lake Katrine, were united in marriage by Judge Walter Webber, justice of the peace of the town of Ulster, at Flatbush on Tuesday, February 24. The witnesses were Granville France and Jennie Halwick.

Birthday Party.

Tuesday evening The Bryant was the scene of a most enjoyable birthday party given in honor of Mrs. Deury. Cards and Mah Jongg were played and pretty prizes won. During the evening refreshments were served and there were dainty favors appropriate to the event.

Lowell Club.

This week the Lowell Club met at the home of Mrs. Delaplane on Albany avenue. The afternoon was a social afternoon and a most enjoyable one at that. Next year this club will take up the study of Africa, and Mrs. Campbell, who has lived for twenty years in southern Africa, was present and gave an excellent paper on "South Africa," that was especially valued as a foreword for next year's work. A guessing contest kept things lively and during the afternoon light refreshments were served. Next week the Lowell Club will meet with Miss Fuller.

Double Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dellay of Rosendale celebrated a double birthday party at the Belvedere Cottage of their one year old daughter, Regina Gertrude, and their seven year old son, Romanus Frank, on Sunday at their residence. All had a wonderful time, with dinner and refreshments being served. The guests were Miss Gertrude Schlanen, godmother of Regina Gertrude, Henry Lippert, of Walden, godfather of both children, Mr. and Mrs. Birdsall of Walden, Mr. and Mrs. N. Lippert, Mrs. C. Lippert, Miss Margaret A. Lippert, Francis J. Lippert, Miss Clara A. Dellay, Romanus F. Dellay, Regina E. Dellay and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dellay. The guests departed for their homes late in the evening.

Shults-Green.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, when Miss Agnes M. Green of 234 South Wall street was united in marriage to Ernest J. Shults of Clinton avenue. The Rev. Eugene A. Duggan performed the ceremony. The attendants were Vincent McCabe and Winifred Green, sister of the bride. The bride was very prettily attired in cream Canton crepe with hat to match. The bridesmaid was gowned in sand color satin with old rose hat. Both bride and groom are very popular. Miss Green was a very valuable employe of the New York Telephone Company and Mr. Shults is a valued employe of the Ulster Garage. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. Following an extended honeymoon trip to the northern part of the state the newlyweds will be at home in this city.

German Lenten Services.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Spring Street Lutheran Church there will be German Lenten services.

Lenten Season Began Today

Throughout the city churches today services were largely attended, it being Ash Wednesday, the first day of the Lent. The day was observed by Masses and the imposition of ashes in Catholic and Episcopal churches. Special services of devotion will be conducted this evening. Special services will be held in churches throughout the Lenten season, which ends on Easter Sunday, which falls this year on April 12.

Dry Bill Over Until Monday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The Jenks state wide prohibition enforcement bill, which appeared on the Assembly calendar today on the order of second reading, was put over until Monday night when several Democrats objected to its advancement.

Assemblyman Jenks predicted the measure would be passed in the lower house a week from Monday night.

About the Folks

Mrs. E. M. Levanion of Port Washington, Long Island, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. H. DeForest at their home, 50 Staples street.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Finnan and daughter, Helen, and Miss Helen Mooney of Brooklyn have been the guests of their sister, Mrs. James E. Welch, of 424 Hasbrouck avenue.

Charles F. Rudnitzkie, formerly of Kingston, who has been for some time located near Providence, R. I., is spending a week in town calling on old acquaintances.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The members of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church will meet Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the late brother, Edward Carroll, 42 East St. James street, to recite the Rosary.

Louis J. Lahl, a former resident of Poughkeepsie, died on Tuesday at the Kingston City Hospital. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Caroline M. Peyer of this city, and one daughter, Beatrice. Funeral from the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Montrepose cemetery.

Mrs. Lavina Alliger, who has been sick for the past three months, died Sunday at the Kingston City Hospital. Mrs. Alliger was a resident of Rosendale for many years, where she had a large circle of friends. She is survived by three sisters and several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held this afternoon at All Saints' Church, Rosendale, the rector, the Rev. James G. Cameron, officiating. Burial in the family plot in Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Edward Carroll, formerly of Rosendale, died Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Clark, 42 East St. James street. Mr. Carroll is survived by two sons, Columbus and James J., both of this city and three daughters, Mrs. William Henches of New York city and Mrs. H. J. Swarthout and Mrs. Thomas M. Clark of this city. Funeral from the home of his daughter, 42 East St. James street, on Friday morning, at 9:30 o'clock and at St. Joseph's Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale.

In the death of Joseph Sapp, Sr., which occurred Tuesday the lower section of the city has lost one of its best known citizens. Mr. Sapp for many years conducted a fruit and vegetable business and was well known throughout the county. The surviving children are Mrs. George Purdy of Elmira, N. Y., Mrs. Fred O. Davidson of Hoboken, N. J., Allan A., Joseph, Jr., Louis W., Matthew and William. Funeral from the home of his son, Matthew, 180 Hasbrouck avenue at 9 o'clock Friday morning, thence to St. Peter's Church at 9:30 o'clock with a high Mass of requiem for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mrs. Ruth Smith Schultz, who has been a resident of Hoboken for the past twenty years, died after a lingering illness Monday evening. Mrs. Schultz with her husband, Fred J. Schultz, has operated "The Homestead," a summer hotel at Milford, Pike county, Pa., for the past six years, residing in Hoboken during the closed season. Her demise is mourned by many friends and admirers here among the visitors at Milford. Mrs. Schultz was formerly Mrs. William R. Smith. She is survived by her husband, Fred J. Schultz, a lifelong resident of Hoboken and two sisters, Mrs. Alvah Oakley of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. and Mrs. Bernard A. Metzger of New York city, N. Y. She was a daughter of the late L. T. Carmichael of this city.

The assault [illegible] to have taken place near [illegible] road along which he was riding. The arrest was made by Sergeant Cunningham and State Trooper O'Hanley.

Mellon Awaits Tax Returns

Detailed Recommendations Concerning Federal Tax Reforms to be Based on Actual Conditions Shown by First Tax Paying Period.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is awaiting the results of the March 15 tax paying period before formulating his detailed recommendations concerning federal tax reforms, it was learned at the treasury today.

Although actuaries estimate the income and profit tax for 1924 will be $1,500,000,00 as compared to actual collections of $1,842,144,000 on 1923 incomes, exact results cannot be determined until about April 1, by which time payments made March 15 will be tabulated.

Among the important developments in the 1924 returns is expected to be an increase in the number of million dollar returns.

Experts said that under the 65 per cent maximum surtax of 1918 there were less than twenty returns showing incomes of $1,000,000 or over.

The 1921 law brought the maximum surtax to 50 per cent and with it an increase of millionaire returns to 68 in 1922.

The 1924 law reduced the tax on incomes over $500,000 to 40 per cent. With this cut is anticipated an increase in the million dollar incomes to from 70 to 75.

Treasury experts who favor a maximum surtax of 20 per cent or less believe that such a rate would boost the million dollar incomes probably as high as 90 or 100. They give these statistics as arguments against the high surtax asserting that it drives the big estates into tax exempt securities.

Administration officials are preparing for a finish fight for tax revision in the sixty-ninth congress.

Musical Night Over WDBZ

Dean will be in charge of the devotional. Mrs. E. J. Adams will have the study for the day, chapter 4 of the home text book. The annual mite box offering will be taken at this time. At 6:30 a covered dish supper will be served. The Queen Esther and King Herald Societies will be the guests at supper.

GERMAN FINANCIER SAILS FOR AMERICA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Feb. 25.—Herbert Gutmann, president of the Bank of Dresden, departed today for America on the liner Albert Ballin, on which Ambassador Hugo Von Maltzan also is a passenger.

Gutmann said his purpose was not to seek another loan for German industries but to return visits paid him by many American bankers and financiers during the last few years.

Hornets Issue Challenge.

The Hornets of East Kingston challenge the Holy Cross basketball team. They desire a game for Friday evening, to be played at the Holy Cross Parish Hall.

Fortified

One Sunday morning a southern pastor noticed a new attendant at the services.

When the meeting was over the preacher made it his business to speak to the newcomer.

"Rastus," he said, "this is the first time I have seen you at church for a long time. I'm mighty glad to see you here."

"I had to come," replied Rastus, "I needs strengthenin'. I've got a job whitewashin' a chicken coop and buildin' a fence around a watermelon patch."

Picking, Holding Distant Stations

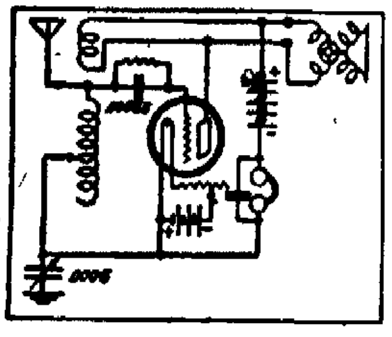
Circuit When Properly Constructed Will Be Found Satisfactory.

There are probably more single-circuit receiving sets in operation than any other kind. Many of them are not worked at their full efficiency.

Most sets assembled with the usual variocoupler cannot be brought to the most sensitive regenerative point, because of the insufficient wire on the rotor, especially when used with a small aerial.

If properly constructed the accompanying circuit will be found sensitive and capable of picking up distant stations and holding them.

With a little care a good coupler may be constructed easily. The stator should be wound with about 50 turns of No. 20 dcc. wire. A few sizes larger or smaller will work as well. Taps should be brought out about every five turns. The rotor should have 00 to 80 turns of No. 24 dcc. wound firmly on a suitable rotor ball which can be purchased reasonably at most dealers. A good variometer must be procured, one with pigtail or braided wire connections preferable, for if these connections fail, even momentarily, it will convert the set into a transmitter and become a nuisance to the neighborhood. It would be better to place this variometer at least one foot away from the varicoupler.



In operation the tickler is placed with the windings almost parallel with the tuner.

Ordinarily this would cause strong oscillations, but the variometer will have a stabilizing effect, and will be the adjustment that can be depended upon to control regeneration. Maximum regeneration will be obtained without any danger of losing the station due to set oscillating suddenly.

The variable condenser is placed with the movable plates connected in the ground lead which eliminates body capacity.

Anyone who has constructed the Flewelling circuit can easily try this idea out by placing two binding posts around the tickler and attaching a variometer in shunt with the tickler. Of course, the super effect must be discontinued by throwing the switch provided for that purpose.—Radio Digest.

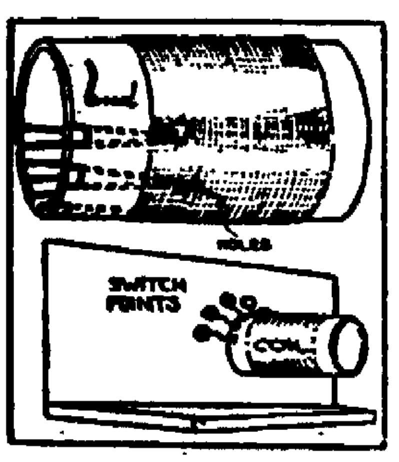
Marine Radio Helper to Many on High Seas

There is a large variety of services for which ship radio sets are useful besides those essential to their own navigation. George S. Davis, head of the radio telegraph department of the United Fruit company, lists them as follows:

1. Distress or S. O. S. calls, which all ships and all broadcasting stations must be ready to receive and answer.
2. Weather reports from ships, more than 25,000 of which are sent in to the United States weather bureau annually, and from which important weather forecasts are made.
3. Navigation aids, such as topographic reports, derelict reports, ice patrol, radio beacon, radio compass.
4. Free medical service, in which advice of competent authorities is flashed from shore or some big liner to other ships.
5. Owner's service, including ship position reports, etc., of great intangible service.—Chicago Evening Post.

Accessible Taps on Your Home-Made Coils

Notch one end of the tube and run the wire through holes in the tube and out over the tongues formed by the notches, then contacts can be easily made and soldered. Connections are especially handy if the tube is mounted with tapped end against the panel.—Radio Digest.



Condenser Caution

When purchasing a condenser do not specify the capacity of the condenser by the number of plates. The number of plates used in a condenser is only a fair indication of the capacity of the condenser. The reader will find that the number of plates for a given capacity varies with the manufacturers' standards. If you are constructing a circuit be sure to find the exact capacity specified and then order the condenser by that capacity.

Anatomy From Dissection

Antonio Pollaiuolo, the celebrated Italian painter and sculptor, born at Florence in 1429, died at Rome, in 1498, is said to have been the first artist who had a practical knowledge of anatomy from dissection.

Acid Thrower May Not Recover

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Bernice Day, who swallowed poison after throwing acid in the face of her husband, Darby Day, Jr., son of the Chicago millionaire, was in a critical condition today. Physicians said her recovery was doubtful.

Caroline Lundstrom, the wife's sister, for whom a warrant was issued, charging her with "aiding and abetting" the acid attack, surrendered and was released in the custody of her mother

Young Day may lose the sight of one eye and suffer fearful facial disfiguration from acid burns.

In a note to her husband written shortly before the alleged attack, Mrs Day charged their romance had been shattered by "too much mother-in-law."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokio, Feb. 25.—Japan today ratified the treaty recognizing the soviet government of Moscow and resuming full diplomatic relations with Russia.

The prince regent signed the document for Japan.

It is understood that the treaty has also been ratified in Moscow and that an exchange of ratifications will take place Thursday in Peking, where the instrument was negotiated.

Arrest Engineer For Train Crash

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 25.—Joseph A Keilt, missing engineer of the Philadelphia train which yesterday crashed into the Havana special at Manhattan Transfer, was arrested today on a technical charge of manslaughter when he appeared at the prosecutor's office here to give his version of the catastrophe.

Three persons were killed and more than 40 injured in the crash.

The wreck will be laid before the grand jury if any criminal negligence by the railroad or an individual is found, it was stated by Aloysius McMahon, assistant prosecutor of Hudson county.

Keilt was released in bail of $10,000. Prosecutor John Milton of Hudson county said that the arrest of the engineer was decided upon as a method of bringing the question of responsibility before the Hudson county grand jury.

Sculptor Borglum Discharged

Designer of Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial Inordinate in Demands for Money, Says Resolution Adopted by Memorial Association.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 25.—The Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial Monunmental Association today summarily discharged Gutzon Borglum of New York as sculptor in charge of making the gigantic figures of General Lee and his aides on the side of Stone Mountain here and the president of the Association was instructed to appoint a committee to select another sculptor at once.

At the same time the committee adopted a resolution notifying the people of Cleveland, Ohio, that Lester P. Bartow has no authority to act for the association in calling a public meeting in that city on March 3, to raise funds jointly for the Stone Mountain memorial and the Harney Peak memorial in South Dakota.

The resolution adopted cancelling Borglum's contract was a scathing arraignment of the sculptor. The committee charged him with inordinate demands for money, "offensive egotism and delusions of grandeur."

Specifically it was pointed out that, after having agreed to make a model for a medal to be given children contributing a dollar each to funds for the memorial. Borglum declined to turn over the finished model unless the contract for making medals should be let to a firm of his selection. The resolution states that Borglum finally was pursuaded to have the firm be selected compete with others by bidding, and the result was that eighteen cents each was the bid, nine cents of which was to go to Borglum as royalty.

The association charged Borglum had absented himself from carving work for several months, giving as an excuse he was working on the design for the coin, although it should have been completed within a few weeks.

The resolution concludes:

"Whereas, it is evident that his interest in the memorial and his loudly professed admiration for the valor of the soldiers of the south begins and ends at the door of the association treasury; and.

"Whereas, his inordinate demands for money not due him, his offensive egotism and his delusions of grandeur, render it impossible to deal with him on any basis of fairness or common sense, therefore.

"Be it resolved that the Association exercise by this resolution its right to stop the work and cancel the agreement."

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Organizations.

At the regular session of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, to be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, among other business will be the nomination of lodge officers. Secretary Charles J. Mullen has received the new membership cards and is ready to issue them.

On Sunday, February 22, Mrs. Sabyna K. Howley, district deputy of the Catholic Daughters of America, visited Court Theresa, No. 277, of Catskill, to initiate a class of seventeen candidates and install the newly elected officers of 1925. The district deputy was accompanied on her visit of duty with the following officers and members of Court Santa Maria, No. 164, of Kingston: Mrs. Mary E. Kogel, Mrs. Mary McCall, Mrs. Kathryn Liscom, the Misses Theresa and Nellie Cahill. In her usual gracious and efficient manner, the worthy district deputy exemplified the beautiful degree work of her society and was commendably assisted by the past monitor, now the lecturer of Court Santa Maria, Mrs. Kathryn Liscom. At the conclusion of the ceremonies a social hour followed and a buffet supper served.

Gets 10 Days for Abusing Judge

"Jake" Maguire was brought to the Ulster county jail Tuesday afternoon to serve 190 days, the sentence having been imposed by Justice of the Peace Walter Webber at Flatbush. He was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct by Sergeant James Cunningham and State Trooper O'Hanley on complaint of a woman who lives at Ruby. Maguire was found guilty for disorderly conduct, committed on Monday, and sentenced to 180 days in jail, and then becoming abusive to Judge Webber, 10 more days were added.

State Deer and Bear Hungry

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Eight deer come to the barn on an abondoned farm at Cannonsville, a few miles east of here, and fed on the hay stored there, residents of the village declared today. They said that doubtless the deep snow in the timberland had driven the deer to this measure. A few weeks ago a black bear chased a berry picker from the woods in the same region and one or two deer have been seen there frequently.

St. Mary's Holy Name Smoker

St. Mary's Senior Holy Name Society held a smoker at St. Mary's School Hall on Tuesday night with an attendance of about seven hundred members and friends. The program for the evening was as follows:

Orchestra Selection.
Three Round Bout between John Moran and J. Mahar.
Solo by Thomas Daley.
Orchestra Selection.
Solo by John Long.
Musical and Instrumental Numbers by the Amarello Brothers.
Violin Selection by John C. Smith, accompanied by his sister, Miss R. Smith, at the piano.
Three Round Bout by Joseph Coffey and Don Hyatt.
Solo by Thomas Dolan.
Solo by Martin Dunn.
Duet by Dunn and Dolan.
Three Round Bout between L. Smith and Ed. Holohean.

Following the entertainment, the Rev. Thomas A. Keane gave a short talk on the benefits of the Holy Name Society. He also thanked the members of the society and their friends for having made the evening such a highly successful one. Refreshments were served. The entertaining committee expressed their thanks to those taking part in the delightful program.

THREE CASES BEFORE JUDGE SCHIRICK IN POLICE COURT

Joe Charles, arrested some time ago on a charge of disorderly conduct, changed his former plea of not guilty to one of guilty when arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick in police court today and was fined $10 and sentenced to thirty days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended pending good behavior.

William Dohnken, a local taxi driver, arrested the night of the Charity Ball for refusing to move his parked auto when ordered to do so by an officer, paid a $2 fine.

Jack Fallon was arrested Tuesday on complaint of John J. Smith of 142 Wilbur avenue, who charged that Fallon had assaulted him. When the case came up in court Smith had changed his mind and withdrew the complaint and Fallon was discharged.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Feb. 25.—All those who take part in the play "Borrowing Trouble" will meet Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Sunday school room of the Reformed Church.

Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters have been invited to attend a card party at the rooms of A. W. Reynolds Temple, Kingston, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. George Sharts of St. Remy spent Monday with her sister, Miss Leona DuBois, on Stout avenue.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Thursday afternoon, February 26, at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Charles Neice on Main street.

A business meeting of the Adult Bible Class will be held at 8:15 Thursday evening at the close of the prayer service. All officers, teachers and members are requested to be present at the Methodist chapel.

The chicken supper given under the auspices of the men of the Methodist Church, in Pythian Hall Tuesday evening was a complete success in every detail. The men surely excelled themselves in the preparation and serving of their big supper. Every one was bountifully served. There were several people present from Kingston, St. Remy, Springtown and Esopus. The minstrel entertainment was well attended and enjoyed, the parts taken were well rendered and the whole affair was a huge success both socially and financially.

Domino Party at Rosendale.

The ladies of the Rosendale Reformed Church will hold a domino party in the lecture room on Friday evening, February 27, beginning at 8 o'clock. Both ladies and gentlemen are invited and the ladies hope there will be a large number of the village and adjoining village people present. A good time is promised all who attend.

MARY'S TOYS REBEL

LITTLE MARY sat up and rubbed her eyes. She was on the sofa in the playroom, where she had thrown herself because her mother would not let her have a fire lighted in her little kitchen stove.

You would guess that Mary was a very good little girl, but the truth is that she often was not good, and wanted to do things her mother did not think best, and then she would cry, and sometimes had to be punished. And that was what had happened this time. Because it was raining she had to play in her playroom, and because she did something very naughty her mother told her she could not come downstairs to lunch until she said she was sorry for what she did.

She Was on the Sofa in the Playroom.

"What did she do?" I hear some one ask.

It was so bad I hate to tell you, but it was something she did with her tongue. It was a pretty little pink tongue, but it did not look pretty when Mary put it out, but there, I won't tell any more, for she was a good girl soon after and sorry for what she had done.

Mary sat up and rubbed her eyes because she heard the toys talking.

Said Calico Cat: "I was as quiet as any puss could be the other day, and she boxed my ears and put me under the table."

"She made me go to bed in the daytime," said Marie Doll, "and all because she had been naughty and sent to bed. I don't think it is fair"

"Neither do I," said Teddy Bear. "When she is bad and has to stand in a corner with her face to the wall she drags me by the shoulder with her and then because she feels cross she bangs me against the wall."

"Yes, she is pretty bad lately," said Little Dog on Wheels. "She kicked me the other day because her mother would not let her do something she wanted to, and sent me running across the room, and I bumped my head against the wall, and here I have stood ever since."

"Well, I for one, am tired of having such a naughty girl for my little mistress," said Calico Cat. "What do you all say if we run away? We can jump into Marie's carriage. And there is that nice rocking horse that the little boy who was visiting left here so he could have it when he came again. He didn't like girl's toys, you know. I am sure we could get him harnessed to Marie's carriage and run away with us. What do you say?"

"I'll go," said Marie Doll.

"So will I," said Teddy Bear, scrambling into the carriage.

"I'll go, I'll go," came from all parts of the room, and all the toys ran toward the doll carriage to get ready to run away. And that was the reason Mary sat up on the playroom sofa and rubbed her eyes.

She had never heard her toys speak before, but here they were finding fault with the way she behaved, and if she did not stop them she would not have a toy left to play with.

Her darling Marie, too, was ready to leave with the others. This was more than Mary could bear. "I'll be good, I'll be good. Please don't run away!" she cried.

"I am not going to run away," said her mother, picking Mary up from the sofa.

"But all my toys are going to run away because I am a bad girl," said Mary, who was only half awake.

"I guess you have been dreaming," said her mother. "You have been asleep, and I hope that naughty little girl that made the ugly face has gone, and my good little girl is here to stay. Is she?"

"Yes, mother," answered Mary. "I'll be good. I am sorry I was so bad."

Mary looked over her mother's shoulder as she carried her out of the playroom. She hoped all the toys heard her promise, and that she would find every one there when she came back.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

DOGS AND THE WIND

A COMMON sailor's superstition is that when a dog howls aboard ship he predicts a storm and the wind will come from the quarter to which the dog points his nose at the time. Among sailors and fishermen there are many superstitions which can be traced back to Norse mythology and this is one of them. Considering the maritime supremacy once exercised by the Viking race it is quite natural that remnants of Scandinavian mythology and folklore should still linger among those who go down to the sea in ships. The only wonder is that there are not more of them. The relation between the dog and the wind comes from his connection with Odin, the great Norse god who was also a wind god and swept land and sea in his furious "wildhunts" Odin in these hunts was accompanied by a retinue of souls, which souls, according to one version, assumed the shape of dogs whose howlings could be heard amid the tempest.

When a storm sweeps over the Welsh mountains the superstitious hear in it the howling of the "dogs of Annwyn," and in Devonshire it is "the health-hounds" calling to this day—both superstitions offsprings of the story of Odin's "Wildhunt." In the Odin saga the little preliminary puffs of wind which herald the coming of the gale are said to be the souls of women hunted by Odin and his crews.

So when a dog on shipboard points his nose and howls it is quite evident that his instinct tells him that his master, Odin, is abroad in the winds, the "wildhunt" is on and he longs to join in the chase.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

LUCY

THE charmingly quaint and old-fashioned name of Lucy is derived from the Latin lux, meaning light. Lux gave the favorite praenomen Lucius, one born at daylight. It was first used in Rome by Lucius Tarquinius Priscus. The first feminine form was Lucia and belonged to a virgin martyr at Syracuse whose name of light, being indicated by early painters by a lamp or an eye, led to the legend that her beautiful eyes had been put out. The old English version cuts off her head, but the indomitable lady goes on talking until she has received the Holy Eucharist.

The Sicilian saints were especially popular and Santa Lucia is not only the patroness of Italian fishermen, and namesake of their daughters, but she was early adopted by the Normans and even in the time of Edward the Confessor, the daughter of the Earl of Mercia had been thus baptized.

The house of Blois were importers of sacred names and Lucie was a sister of Stephen and was among those lost on the White Ship. The name has since flourished in England and France; it is particularly popular in the latter where many noble ladies were called Lucy, though poetry called them by the more fashionable Lucinda.

The English forms of the name are Lucy, Luce, and Lucinda. France calls her Luce and Lucie. She is Lucia to Spain and Italy, which also adds Lusia. Russia terms her Lusija.

Lucy's talismanic stone is the king of gems, the diamond. Its dazzling brilliance gives fearlessness to its wearer, and invulnerability. To bring victory to any endeavor, it should be set in gold and worn on the left hand. Saturday is Lucy's most fortunate day and 5 her lucky number.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25.—With the exception of the railroad and the equipment stocks, which held most of their recent gains, and a few of the specialty stocks, reactionary conditions prevailed in the stock market today. Price changes were narrow and were due mostly to the activities of professional traders.

Low priced railroad stocks furnished the principal rallying ground for the bulls. Norfolk and Southern, Chicago Great Western, New Haven and others of the speculative railroad shares were boosted on the prospect of their being included in one or the other of the proposed consolidations of transportation systems.

Trading, however, dwindled to smaller proportions after the noon period.

Brisk forward movements in American Locomotive, Air Reduction, Radio Corporation and a few of the specialty stocks failed to bring any great response from outside traders. American Locomotive reached 134½, the highest since 1923, on rumors that, after a special cash or stock dividend, the directors would place the common stock on an eight per cent annual dividend basis.

The motor and oil stocks were reactionary from the start. General Motors continued weak and sold at 3, a new low for the movement. Mack Trucks lost about 3 points and other motor shares were fractionally lower.

Forward movements in the tobacco stocks, some of the sugars and a small number of specialties sent prices up a point or so. But none of these movements attracted much attention and the pace of the market slackened as the day advanced. Call money ruled at 4¼ per cent and time money was firm.

Three Dismissed On Federal Charge

Judge Winslow Dismissed Indictment Against Three, Accused of Using Mails to Defraud—Stoneham and Two Others Held.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25—Federal Judge Winslow today dismissed the indictment against three of the defendants on trial with Charles A. Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, accused of using the mails to defraud.

The three are Horace A. Stoneham, brother of Charles, and Fred Andrews and August Stroh, clerks in the defunct firm of E. D. Dier and Company.

Motions to dismiss were argued yesterday and the court reserved decision until today. Judge Winslow refused the same action in the cases of Stoneham, Ross Robertson and Elmore D. Dier. The defense spent the day in summing up to the jury.

This is the seventh week of the trial.

Try Mediation Between Unions

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The American Federation of Labor today undertook to mediate the difference between the United Mine Workers of America and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers involving the employment of non-union miners in the New River coal field being worked by the brotherhood in West Virginia.

Three members of the federation, headed by Secretary Frank A. Morrison, conferred with John L. Lewis, president of the miners' union, and Warren S. Stone, president of the engineers' organization, under resolutions adopted at the El Paso convention of the federation.

NATION'S HIGHWAYS SUPERIOR TO FRENCH

"The whole world has looked upon France as having the most perfect highway system," says Charles Sanders, an Indianapolis automobile dealer. "Yet few people realize that the United States, in less than the eight years since 1916, has constructed a federal, aid highway system that not only has a greater actual mileage than that of France but is greater in proportion to the total mileage of roads within the two countries.

"Our great network of federal aid highways extends from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf. When completed, it will be possible for one to travel from any town in the United States of 5,000 population or more to any other town of like size in the country without leaving an improved road.

"Much of this great advancement in our highway system is made possible by the automobile, and at the same time is made necessary by the growing use of the automobile.

"The federal excise taxes collected on automobiles and parts from 1917 to 1923 amounted to more than $589,000,000. In addition to this are the huge sums collected by individual states in the form of registration, licenses, gasoline tax, etc., which has helped to build roads.

"More than 25,000 miles of federal aid highways have been completed since 1916—enough to circle the globe with an improved road, built to stand all its anticipated traffic.

"In addition to the federal aid highway system, thousands of miles of state and county roads not within the federal system have been improved. Each year travel becomes more delightful, and automobile tourists more numerous. When we have been building roads as long as France has, I venture to say we will have something of a system."

Better Roads Increase Use of Motor Vehicles

Improved roads throughout the country have been largely responsible for the great increase in the use of motor vehicles in recent years, because they have made traveling easier and more rapid and have greatly reduced the cost of operation of motor vehicles.

The average motorist is bound to realize that a good paved road reduces the cost of driving an automobile, by savings effected on gasoline, tires and repairs. This much is apparent when he contrasts the results of his driving over a rough dirt road and that over a good, even surface, such as concrete pavement. But he probably will not keep an accurate check on the savings effected.

Figures compiled by George A. Pond, cost accountant at the University farm, St. Paul, Minn., show that better roads were perhaps the greatest single factor in reducing the automobile expenses for Minnesota county agents during 1923. The cost of operating cars of county agents in Minnesota in 1923 was less than 57 per cent of that in 1920, Mr. Pond says in a bulletin.

Last year, fifty-six county agents reported that they ran their automobiles an average of 8,924 miles each at a total mile cost of 6.49 cents, while in 1920 fifty-one county agents covered an average of 6,447 miles each at a total mile cost of 11.51 cents. All but two or three of the machines were light, four cylinder cars.

While other factors entered into the reduction in operating costs, Mr. Pond credits improved highways with the greater part of the saving.

Roadside Market Developed

The extension of hard-surfaced roads has benefited thousands of farmers through the comparatively new development of the "roadside market." By this means the farmer is enabled to dispose of considerable quantities of fruits, vegetables, etc., at his own doorstep thereby saving the time and expense involved in hauling such produce to market. Frequently this roadside market is handled by the younger members of the family, leaving the men free to engage in other profitable work about the farm.

Highway on Old Roadbed

One of the most remarkable motor highways in America from a scenic and engineering viewpoint is in Colorado over the Rocky mountains. A particularly interesting feature of this new western thoroughfare is that it is constructed for its length of 221 miles over the old roadbed of the Colorado Midland railroad, which ran from Colorado Springs to Glenwood Springs.

Hard Surfaced Roads Urged

Tourists in steadily increasing thousands are broadcasting the scenic wonders and marvelous natural resources of our country. Let us give them something else to talk about, suggests the Concrete Highway Magazine. Motorists know roads. They know that in economy, safety and all around satisfaction no other road performs like concrete. The concrete highway has repair built out and the maintenance built in. It saves gasoline and repair bills. It lengthens the life of the car.

Health Workers' Field Broadens

Therefore, Specific Cure for Tuberculosis Would Not Put T. B. Workers and Associations Out of Job, in Report to Ulster County Committee.

"Will a specific cure for tuberculosis put tuberculosis workers and associations out of a job?" was a pointed question introduced by no less an authority than Dr. Linsly R. Williams, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, at a meeting last week in New York city of the executives of the affiliated local committees of the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, State Charities Aid Association. The answer to Dr. Williams's interesting question is reported by Miss Hecelwerde who represented the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health at the seventh annual state wide tuberculosis conference.

Tuberculosis associations and workers, it was reported, will not lose their jobs when a specific tuberculosis cure is found because their field of work has already broadened to include many other lines of disease prevention and the time was foreseen when associations financed through the Christmas seal sale will engage in campaigns for the prevention of cancer, heart disease and venereal disease. The warning was given however not to broaden the scope of work until the tuberculosis problem was solved.

Recently heralded tuberculosis "cures" including the Danish "gold cure" were reviewed and the tuberculosis workers were disappointed to learn that the "cures" had a very small claim for success.

Twenty-six counties reported Christmas seal sale returns in excess of their quotas. The approximate total sale for New York state was estimated at $470,000, an increase of $16,000 over last year, so that the chances are good for New York to again lead the nation in the gross sale and per capita sale of seals. The national returns are estimated at $4,500,000.

The workers attending the conference heard from medical men that periodic health examinations were becoming more and more thought of by the average individual and that the promotion of such a campaign through local medical societies and tuberculosis associations was a laudable enterprise. Other speakers emphasized the need for trained nutrition experts in the schools to correct the defects of undernourished children.

A report of the new bill providing education and treatment for crippled children, sponsored by the State Commission for Crippled Children, was given by Henry C. Wright, executive of the commission and assistance in securing its passage by the legislature was asked.

A remarkable rapid-fire review of tuberculosis and public health work in the state was given by the more than 40 secretaries who attended the conference. Staff representatives of the State Departments of Health and Education also participated in the discussion. The closing meeting was the annual dinner of the State Charities Aid Association at the Hotel Astor which was addressed by Governor Smith.

Made Good Claim to Power Over Reptiles

Until quite recent date at Luxor was to be found an Egyptian who claimed direct descent from the pharaohs, and who possessed wonderful power over snakes, scorpions and other reptiles. An exhibition of his uncanny power was given amid the ruins of Karnak, a favorite haunt of reptiles. Before entering the garden the man removed all his clothes. He then walked in, and commenced an impassioned harangue, summoning all the snakes in the garden to obey the powers he had derived from his pharaoh ancestors, and come forth. Not many moments elapsed after he had finished his harangue before a long, thin snake came gliding toward him. It was followed by another and another, till about a dozen snakes had come out on to the path where he stood, which were picked up by the snake man and stuck into a basket. The man quietly approached spectators and asked if they wished him to gather scorpions. He then turned to an old well and exhorted the scorpions to emerge. At once a large one came out of a hole in the wall, the man picked it up and placed it on his palm. The scorpion immediately stung him, drawing a few drops of blood, but the man paid not the slightest attention to this. The man's strange powers were not inherited by his son, as the latter was shortly after bitten by a cobra and died immediately.

New York Athletic Commission Fails to Support Officials—Wagner Will Be Returned to Good Standing in Tournament.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25.—For the first time since the Walker law, making legal the manly art of assault and battery became effective in this state six years ago the New York Athletic Commission has failed to stand behind its officials and reports today were to the effect that a general house cleaning is in order.

A minute scrutiny of the records of the men who make and unmake champions with an airy gesture of their little white slips will be the first step taken, it is declared.

In brief, the showdown has come. On Monday night, a referee and two judges collaborated in declaring the Jimmy Goodrich-Kid Wagner bout a draw at the end of ten rounds and ordered two extra periods. Goodrich earned the verdict at the final bell. Seemingly, the officials were the only citizens present who saw the business in this light. Ninety-eight per cent of the crowd declared Wagner an easy winner at the end of ten rounds.

One of the dissenters was the strong, silent man, William Muldoon, and he thought so little of the verdict that, speaking for the commission yesterday he announced that Wagner would be returned to good standing in the lightweight elimination tourney, from which the Goodrich verdict would have removed him. This was nothing less than an official slap at the judges, Charles Wood and Harold Barnes and the chances are very good that they will do no more officiating in New York.

The referee, Jack O'Sullivan, voted for Wagner.

If the commission fine-combs the qualifications of some of its officials and eliminates those whose eye sight is open to doubt, more of the champions will be inclined to appear in New York rings.

Mickey Walker, for example, has steadfastly declined to box here, although Dave Shade's challenge has been on file with the board for many months. Walker stands suspended in this state but is managing to bear up bravely under the impost. He may have missed several big shots in the Garden but he still has his title.

What Saints Think Of Ellenville

Editor, The Freeman:

In all sport there is one unwritten law, that is "Play hard! win if you can, but failing that, be a good loser." Being as we hope, an aggregation of sportsmen, it is strictly against the custom of St. Peter's Lyceum to whine after a defeat and especially when that defeat was sustained on an outside court. This is bad form according to the best authorities on sport etiquette. As proof of this attitude we point to several reverses, two of them at the hands of Ellenville, and we beg the members of that team to read the Kingston newspaper comments on these encounters. According to our view, it is utterly unsportsmanlike to resort to newspaper publicity, giving vent to our spleen on an opposing five, in order to hide our ability to take a defeat like men.

We have often returned losers after a hard fought contest, disgruntled and feeling that we had not been given a square deal but we challenge you to find a single instance where the newspaper account gave any evidence of it.

At the instance of our friends from Ellenville we are forced to depart from this policy. We must needs make reply through the press to an article which under ordinary circumstances we would ignore. The tone of this article appearing in the "Ellenville Journal" makes it impossible for us to be silent unless by silence we would admit that injustice was done to them. This is furthest from our intention.

We feel sure that Referee Clare who is in no way associated with our Lyceum and a purely distinterested referee, will be able to answer for himself the insult which a "sportsman" did not hesitate to offer in print, that is if he deems him worthy of a reply. Our appeal is to those who witnessed the contest and to the record of fair-play which is our boast. This reputation comes from the unsolicited testimony of more than a dozen out of town teams who have lost on St. Peter's court this year.

We regret that we are compelled to mention by contrast that the last game at Ellenville, emphasized in the above mentioned article, was played under protest with one of the Ellenville team as referee. We might point to a number of inaccuracies in the account of the game at Kingston, such as the fouls which were not 28 to 14—but 25 to 17—as the book shows. In order to balance their boast of victory over us we beg to mention that Ellenville played at St. Peter's on December 1, 1924, and returned to Ellenville with a 38-21 defeat tied to their record. On that occasion our captain and star floor man Otto Thurin did not play while Rosenberger was in the Wanderers' lineup. We recall last season's encounter with the Wanderers played at St. Peter's. On that occasion Ellenville nosed us out by one point. It was a good game, no one complained and the Wanderers were entertained after the game at the expense of the Lyceum. In spite of this treatment and much correspondence they could not book the Lyceum for a return game last year.

To go into further detail concerning these games, even at this provocation, we feel, would lay us open to the charge of "crabbing." As a matter of fact we have our own opinion as to the prevailing motive which prompted the unreasonable attack. The article itself suggests it, not the sting of defeat but the painful difference in cold cash between the winner's and the loser's guarantee.

We trust that this unfortunate article was written without the sanction of the Wanderers' management. We give them the benefit of the doubt for we are loath to believe them guilty of such a gross violation of the universally recognized ethics of sportsmen.

Champion of AEF Will Fight Again

"Bob" Martin Recovered From Blood Clot Caused By Frank Moran's Fists, Seeks Battles.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 25.—"Bob" Martin, kingpin fighter of Uncle Sam's several millions of fighting men during the World War is preparing to engage in the favorite pastime of "hasbeens" in the sporting fraternity—a "comeback."

Martin, champion heavyweight of the A. E. F. and shortly after the war a contender for the championship, thinks he is ready again to enter the ring, after a layoff necessitated by impaired vision. He is undergoing treatment by skilled surgeons, who believe they can cure the ailment.

Shortly after his enforced retirement Martin enlisted in the West Virginia state police force as a private, but in a few months he won a corporal's stripes. Leading an active outdoor life, Martin improved wonderfully in health.

Recently he resigned and announced his intention of donning the padded mitts again. Paradoxically enough, his last act, before turning in his police badge to rejoin the ranks of professional fighters, was to halt an amateur fight at Orlando, W. Va. It wasn't a regular, scheduled scrap at all—merely one of those impromptu battles that always produce more action in a minute than a million dollar gate bout furnishes in an entire evening.

The big fellow threw himself into the melee with a zest and emerging with one arm embracing the fighters and the other arm encircled around the necks of two ardent spectators who failed to see Corporal Martin approaching.

"Jimmy" Bronson, Martin's former manager, plans to match Martin against either Charley Weinert, Firpo's conqueror, or Jack Renault, the battling Canadian, as a starter.

"Jimmy" DeForest, considered America's best conditioner of pugilists, probably will take Martin under his watchful eye, if the soldier-champion receives the consent of the surgeons to don the gloves.

The former doughbooy's impaired vision resulted from a bloodclot on the base of his brain, caused by the poundings inflicted by Frank Moran, erstwhile "white hope." Incidentally, Martin finally knocked out Moran in the same battle in which Frank's famous "Mary Ann" administered such fearful punishment to Bob's head.

Fox Fourth in National Event

Chester Fox of Local Y. M. C. A. Placed Fourth in National Tournament Held This Month in the United States.

On February 14th Physical Director Buley of the local Y. M. C. A. held trials for the National Free Throw Championship of the United States. Five boys took part in this contest with the following results:

William Mohr, 21 goals out of 75 trials.

James Leonard, 18 goals out of 60 trials.

Harold Johnson, 23 goals out of 60 trials.

Joe Block, 29 goals out of 60 trials.

Chester Fox, 44 goals out of 60 trials.

Returns from the national contest show that Chester Fox of the local Y. M. C. A. is tie with W. Sharp of Anderson, Indiana, Y. M. C. A. for fourth place in the intermediate division. The winner of national honors in this division was C. Ellenson of Warsaw, Wisconsin, high school, who caged 48 baskets out of 60 trials.

WALKER KNOCKED OUT COLIMA IN SEVENTH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 25.—Bert Colima, Los Angeles Mexican boxer and middleweight champion of the Pacific coast was knocked out in the seventh round here last night by Mickey Walker, welterweight champion.

The New Jersey boxer wove a mesmeric spell around his opponent, socked him for a nine count in the first round, beat his blue veined body purple in the next five canters and sent him rolling to his own corner in the seventh.

In the fourth round Colima socked the champion four or five healthies with his good right hand. Otherwise the performance of the local pride was pitiful.

ACTION AGAINST RITOLA LIKELY TO BE DROPPED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25—Doubt was expressed today that further action would be taken against Willie Ritola, star runner, following the local A. A. U.'s registration committee's failure to suspend the athlete pending formal receipt of charges that he failed to appear at a set of games in Boston after excepting expense money. Announcement by Stephen A. Byrne, chairman of the committee, that he found the explanation of Hugo Quist, Ritola's trainer, to be satisfactory has been taken as meaning that the Boston promoters will not press their charges.

Quist explained that he entered Ritola in the Boston meet but could not communicate personally with the runner to apprise him of this action in time to appear. The expense money will be returned by Quist.

Morgenweck Cancels Games At Local Court

Manager of Kingston Team of Metropolitan League Cancels Home Games Due to Poor Support—Refund May Be Had—Where Will Play Off Be Staged?

M. Husta of the Kingston Metropolitan League basketball quintet, who is in charge of the local affairs for Manager Frank Morgenweck, announced this morning that the balance of the games scheduled to be played at the armory court have been cancelled. The reason given by Husta was to the effect that the games recently played here were poorly attended.

Kingston, winners of the first half championship, will be entitled to a play off with the winners of the second half championship, undoubtedly the Brooklyn team. The play off it was stated would possibly be played on a court in or around New York city. The attendance at a play off game would be large at the local court but much larger at a court in a larger city.

The attendance at recent games were very small and Manager Morgenweck had to dig into his bank roll, but the team was well supported in the first half race. In supporting the team in the first half race local fandom had as their representatives a championship outfit. This championship quintet is entitled to the play off in the same manner that local customers are enittled to see them play in the championship series at the local court. Morgenweck's withdrawal from the league due to lack of support is justified, but engaging in the championship games without giving local customers an opportunity to witness a contest if they so desire at the local court is now wholly justifiable. If Morgenweck's reasons for not playing a championship game here is for fear of not having a large crowd in attendance, arrangements can be made, similar to those when the Celtics appeared here, to establish whether or not local fandom would support a championship game.

All holders of season reserved seat tickets can have their money refunded for the balance of games, scheduled to be played here, by presenting the tickets at the armory. They then will be sent to Manager Morgenweck.

Husta Still Leading Scorer

The two important games this week in the Metropolitan League, are between Paterson and Brooklyn. Brooklyn has the lead over the Legionaires by five and half games and the results of these games will tell whether or not Brooklyn will be crowned the winner of the second half race.

In place of Harry Riconda and Teddy Kearns, the latter playing one game with the Kingston team, Manager Morgenweck has signed Chick Passon and Doc. Newman, both of Philadelphia.

Husta Leads Scorers.

Carl Husta is still at the head of the individual scoring list in the Metropolitan League, with a total of 151. The local player leads with the highest number of fields 59 and the highest number of fouls, 73. Banks of Brooklyn is second with 127 points.

Plants and Light

All plants require some light. Sunlight supplies the energy which causes chemical reactions to take place inside the leaves. These reactions convert the raw food elements into food elements available to the plant, says a flower magazine. Therefore, such sun-loving plants as geraniums, roses, and abutilon, when set away in a dark corner, do not thrive so well as when placed in a sunny window. On the other hand, plants which like a mild amount of sunlight, and this includes palms, aspidistra, ferns and many of the vines, do not thrive if put in a sunny location.

RESULTS IN GIRLS' SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE

Three more games in the Girls' Inter Sunday School Basketball League have been played at the Y. W. C. A.; St. John's Episcopal, Clinton Avenue Business Girls, and Fair Street Reformed being the victors. In the Girls' rules, the guards are not allowed to shoot for basket and a field goal made with both hands over the head when shot, counts only one.

RADIO VOLLEY BALL TEAM WON FAST GAME

An aggregation of crack ball bouncers gathered by Manager Thomas Morrissey and Captain Frank DuFlon defeated the Fair Street Reformed Church team on the Y. M. C. A. court Monday evening by the following scores:

Fair St., 15; Radio Volley Ball Team, 11.

Radio Volley Ball Team, 15; Fair Street, 10.

Radio Volley Ball Team, 15; Fair Street, 6.

Fair Street, 15; Radio Volley Ball Team, 14.

Radio Volley Ball Team, 15; Fair Street, 6.

The following men composed the different teams:

Radio Volley Ball Team—Frank DuFlon, Capt.; Tom Morrissey, Mgr.; Gordon Craig, Clarence Harris, Clyde Wonderly, Bob Murray, R. Marchant.

Fair Street Church — Arthur Weeks, Capt.; Ted Young, Mgr.; Roy Longendyke, Arthur Davis, D. DeGraff, Joe Craig.

The games were interesting, exciting and laughable. Capt. Frank DuFlon tried his usual stunt of playing the ball with his head and feet and holding an Indian war dance every time his team scored a point or made a good play. Clyde Wonderly, the little star of the Radio team, has been taking high jump lessons daily for the past two weeks and is developing into a regular kill man, being almost able to reach the top of the eight foot net. In fact it looks as though the Radio Volley Ball Team is the coming aggregation of the city, but such men as Arthur Wicks and Roy Longendyke are disputing this claim. Interesting volley ball contests in the next few weeks is expected.

Jackie Beat Lee.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 25.—Clyde K. O. Jackie, of Toledo, was a member in good standing of the survivors' club today as a result of his ten round victory over George Kid Lee, of [illegible], last night in the lightweight elimination tournament.
